

THE Twentieth Century Limited, the "crackest" of America's crack trains, is crossing what, half the year, is the driest and least colorful part of America. But there is nothing dreary about it now. In the richness of early summer it is as bright and many-colored as California. The green of the trees, the green, bronze and gold of the fields, the blue and gray of the sky, and even the bright red of a huge barn, shining in the sun, satisfy the eye, as the prospects of rich crops fill the imagination. Even the ugly houses—and there is nothing so ugly in the whole realm of human building as the typical Middle-Western small town or farm house—are nearly hidden by the trees. If you must cross this great granary of the world, do it in the brief season while it is green and fresh.

DULL and drab as this country is half the year and prosaic as its chief products are—corn, hogs, butter and cheese, wheat and soft coal, which puts its grimy stain on everything but the newest flax, this is, in many ways, the most important and interesting part of America. There is no richer soil on earth than this Mississippi Valley black mud, and nowhere else is there anywhere near so much of it. A thousand miles by more than a thousand miles, with scarcely a wasted acre, this is the place which feeds the nation with its most precious but necessary foods. Oranges and raisins are more romantic, but meat and bread are more important. And nowhere is a better, more self-reliant, more generally prosperous and intelligent, and more sturdy American people. This is the real democracy, for which America stands to the world. And it is the only one which makes California possible. Most of us came from there, most of our products are sold there, and most of our promotion capital is based on Mid-Western prosperity and on the unanimous desire of the Mid-Westerners to move to California when they can. Because their country is so beautiful part of the time, they aspire to go where it is so all the year.

ONCE more, it is foreigners who out-irish the Irish. Archbishop Mannix, an Australian, addresses an applauding audience of Americans, in Carnegie Hall, with a speech which, if delivered in Ireland, would jell anybody else, and would produce an instant demand for the deportation of even a dignitary of the Church. What the Irish government, elected by the people of Ireland, punishes in Ireland as treason to Ireland, is still, in America, regarded as "good Irish politics." Ireland thinks otherwise.

Archbishop Mannix, speaking for Ireland without its authority or approval, demands two things—abolition of the oath of allegiance, and the "unity" of all Ireland. The oath of allegiance to the shadowy sovereignty of King George does not interfere with any freedom of Ireland to do for Ireland, or in Ireland, anything that the Irish people wish. At most, it prevents them from doing, as against England, hostile and enemy acts. As there are no such acts which anybody now wants to commit, and as it is best for Ireland, and for the peace of the world, that they be not committed even if, in future, some Irishman should wish to do them, this is doing no practical harm to anybody. And the "unification" of which the Archbishop speaks could now be made a practical reality only by waging a war of conquest on Northern Ireland. The people of the Irish Free State all no doubt hope for the time when their Northern brethren will be willing to join them. But they have very wisely concluded that it would be neither right nor profitable to accomplish it by the horrors of civil war. Is this not a more Christian, as well as patriotic policy, than the Archbishop's sanguinary proposal?

Anyhow, isn't it Ireland's business, and not America's, or Australia's?

REGULAR air travel across the Atlantic seems almost in sight. At least there is a dispute as to who owns the patent rights to the invention which is to make it practical. Howard R. Armstrong, chief mechanical expert of the development division of the du Pont company, announces a plan, which, already nearly perfected, for eight huge "seadromes" between New York and England, which will make air hops as easy as the air mail now is. They will be 400 by 1200 feet, so constructed as to be practically unaffected by the waves, with landing stations, night searchlights, hotel accommodations for passengers, and supplies for the planes. A thirty-hour trip, for $350, which is less than a good room on the best steamships, is now feasible, and is theoretically possible to figure out an ultimate fare of $75, for a twenty-hour trip. Europe will then be as near to New York as Chicago now is, and the barrier of the sea will have disappeared.

This is more than a dream. The man who announces it is hired by one of the most practical companies to realize just such dreams. His company and associates have command of the money to do it. It can be done, and they can do it. We are likely to see the miracle of its being done.

Gravest Danger From Fire Past

COULTEVILLE, Calif., July 28.—Although the brush and grass fires that have been raging near here for the last few days have not yet been declared under control, it is believed that they have spent their fury and that this gravest danger is past.

A large number of men have been rushed into the Stanislaus forest, where a fire is sweeping through the holdings of the Pickering Lumber company.

The brush fire near here has burned over an area approximately seven miles long and one mile wide.

Hurricane Sweeps Toward Jacksonville

MILLION AND HALF DAMAGE DUE TO GALE

Florida Suffers Heavily From Storm, While Loss In Bahamas Not Known

PALM BEACH HARD HIT

Wind Tears Roofs from Houses, Fells Trees and Cripples Wire Service

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 28.—While howling winds, beating this city since early morning, increased hourly in intensity, Jacksonville waited tensely this afternoon for the hurricane blasts expected to sweep it before dark.

(By United Press)
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 28.—After causing damage of at least $1,500,000 to eastern Florida, wrecking scores of small boats, disabling at least one ocean-going freighter and taking on unknown toll in the Bahama islands, the tropical hurricane, which has flailed the south Atlantic since Sunday, was creeping up on Jacksonville this morning.

While the hurricane area crawled northwestward at a snail's pace, winds within the area whipped and tore and slashed at the rate of 70 to 100 miles an hour, tearing down trees, crippling telephone and telegraph service, unroofing houses and battering dangerously such shipping as remains upon the seas off the Florida coast.

Fate of Ship in Doubt
Fate of the Italian steamer Ansaldo San Giorgio Secondo was still in doubt this morning. The freighter, with a crew of 30 on board, drifted rulerless before the storm all day yesterday, while two other ships stood by. Last night, as the storm increased, the rescue ships lost sight of the disabled vessel, but whether it sank or was blown farther out to sea, is not yet known.

The Dutch steamer Wilhelmina Reijnders is in distress near Jupiter inlet, just off Palm Beach, according to radio reports.

Palm Beach and West Palm Beach, where the storm did $1,000,000 damage yesterday, are the hardest hit of the southern Florida cities over which the hurricane already has passed. Forty small yachts and houseboats in Lake Worth, between those two cities, were sunk and a wooden bridge over the lake was washed away.

Enormous Loss at Nassau
Damage to Nassau, in the Bahamas, which has been out of communication with the United States since the storm wrecked its radio station Sunday, was placed at $5,000,000 in garbled estimates. It may have been much higher, according to shipping men here.

Passengers from the Seminola, which was forced to put back into Jacksonville because of the gale, were sent to Miami by train, and the Clyde line was booking passengers here today for a return trip to New York this afternoon, weather permitting.

The Standard Oil tanker Glenpool, enroute to Baton Rouge, La., and the Morgan line freighter Elestro, bound for Galveston, are in port here, having run for cover from the hurricane.

Padang Rocked By Earthquake

AMSTERDAM, July 28.—Dispatches received here today reported an earthquake in Padang, Dutch East Indies, Tuesday night. The islands experienced severe earthquakes about a month ago, in which the loss of life and damage to property were large.

SWITCH OF SUPPORT IN RACE FOR SENATE TOLD AT INQUIRY

(By United Press)
FEDERAL BUILDING, Chicago, July 28.—The powerful Crowe-Barrett faction switched its support from Senator McKinley, Republican, Illinois, to his opponent, Frank L. Smith, after a discussion about how much money McKinley would contribute to the Crowe-Barrett County ticket. Henry I. Green, campaign manager for McKinley, told the senate primary investigating committee today.

Green said he and McKinley had discussed giving $1000 toward the Crowe-Barrett ticket, and that they expected the Crowe-Barrett faction to

City of 40,000 Abolishes Police Force

WARREN, O., July 28.—Warren, a city of 40,000 people, will try the unusual experiment of abolishing its police department.

Mayor J. H. Marshall today signed an emergency order discharging Chief of Police Gilman and 23 officers because the city could not afford to pay their salaries. The order becomes effective Saturday at midnight.

Sheriff John Smith was asked to accept responsibility for patrolling the streets and enforcing the law.

CRAZED WOMAN KILLS MOTHER; GUARDS BODY

(By United Press)
OREGON CITY, Ore., July 28.—Apparently in a fit of temporary insanity, Mrs. Charles Warren, 28, wife of a railroad man, shot and fatally wounded her mother, Mrs. Melissa Bolton, 73, at the Warren home in Canemah, a mile south of here, shortly before midnight Tuesday. Mrs. Bolton died at a local hospital early today.

No explanation for the shooting has been given, unless insanity was the cause. Mrs. Warren fired two shots, only one of which hit her mother. This shot took effect in Mrs. Bolton's stomach.

Neighbors heard the first shot and screams of the wounded woman and rushed to the house, but hesitated to enter when another shot rang out. They called Sheriff Mass, who found the house barricaded and Mrs. Warren on guard over the body of her mother with a revolver.

Mrs. Warren's husband was away at the time, but her two children, one 2 years of age and the other an infant, were in the room when the shots were fired. The mother had lived in the Warren home for years. She was a widow. Corner O. A. Pace is investigating. Mrs. Warren is held in the county jail here, but no formal charge has been filed.

RECORD VOTE CAST IN TEXAS PRIMARY

DALLAS, Tex., July 28.—Texans thronged to the polls in the Saturday primary to cast the record vote in the state's political history, returns tabulated by the Texas election bureau showed at noon today, with an undetermined number of ballots outstanding.

The noon tabulation showed 791,456, compared with 789,027 cast in the run off gubernatorial primary in 1924 between Governor Ferguson and Felix Robertson, Klan candidate.

Incomplete returns from 249 counties left Dan Moody short of a majority by 373 votes, but with a popular ballot of 395,542. Mrs. Ferguson was credited with 271,302 and Lynch Davidson, 119,085. Three other candidates polled 5524.

Inquiry Ends on Plunge to Death

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Investigation was ended today into the death of Mrs. Ruth Osborn 22-year-old divorcee, who was found with a fractured skull early yesterday in an alley behind an apartment house. Police asserted she had fallen through the window of a second-floor apartment while intoxicated, her injuries causing her death. Her divorced husband lives in Los Angeles.

(By United Press)
Senator McKinley in Chicago. The money, however, was never paid and the Crowe-Barrett faction went over to Smith.

Senator McKinley, unsuccessful Republican senatorial candidate, financed his $350,000 campaign himself, Green told the investigating committee.

It was McKinley's policy not to receive contributions in the senatorial race, expenditures of which are known to have reached $625,000, Green said.

Green said he did not personally receive any contributions from any person other than McKinley.

AMEE ASKS FOR FAIR PLAY FROM PUBLIC

Woman Evangelist in Dramatic Plea Bitterly Attacks Public Officials

TIME FOR SHOWDOWN

Mrs. McPherson Declares Attempt to Assassinate Her Character Collapses

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, July 28.—In a dramatic appeal to "the great American public" for "fair play," Aimee Semple McPherson, at noon today, issued a lengthy statement, in which she bitterly flayed officials who have taken prominent parts in the investigation of her alleged kidnapping.

The statement in part follows: "The time at last has come for the final showdown. Another persecution of Aimee Semple McPherson has come to an end, and still the Gospel of the Lord God rings even to the rafters of Angelus temple.

"But that Gospel does ring to those rafters only because another dastardly attempt to assassinate the character and chastity of a defenseless woman has fallen of its own wickedness—and now comes the showdown.

Silent Beyond Endurance
"I have remained silent beyond all endurance, and now I will reveal a sequence of sinister events, a chain of evidence which will make the motive of the whole damnable conspiracy apparent to every man, woman and child in the civilized world."

Referring to her refusal to have her finger-prints taken, or to go to Carmel to face witnesses who, investigators claim, identified her as the "woman in goggles" who occupied a bungalow there for several days, Mrs. McPherson's statement continued:

"After my photograph has been broadcast in every newspaper in the land, who is there who could not identify me? Seven witnesses? I marvel they didn't produce seven hands."

"But why didn't they come forward before? They could not. They could not identify me then—even when the grand jury investigation was going on. . . . But they can identify me now, and the reason they can go back to those first days in Douglas, after I escaped.

"The morning of my reappearance, Mr. Cline telephoned Mr. Keyes that he was going to Arizona, and particularly requested that Mr. Ryan be sent also. Mr. Ryan, deputy district attorney, is son-in-law to Mr. Cline, captain of police. Mr. Keyes refused his request. . . . Mr. Cline insisted that he had to have his son-in-law's legal advice on the case, and Mr. Keyes finally granted permission.

Belief in Drowning
"Until that time, Mr. Cline stated publicly and repeatedly his belief that I was drowned. Then, in Douglas, he stated explicitly positively his belief that I had been kidnapped, and then, suddenly, he changed completely around and began venomously to attack my story.

"Since that time, both he and Mr. Ryan have been intensely active in their attempts to shatter not only my story of my abduction, but also my character. . . . So far they have not gotten anywhere."

The statement then relates that Cline's attitude changed because Mrs. McPherson did not see fit to follow a suggestion that she employ "a certain person" to "save me a possible trouble."

"Yesterday afternoon," the statement continued, "they telephoned me from Monterey to come up and be identified some more to play lamb again for their slaughter. . . . and submit myself to police fingerprints—I, who was abducted! Let them find my kidnappers and fingerprint them!

"Not only do they try to befoul my name; they try also to insult my intelligence. . . .

"I appeal to the sense of justice innate in the American man and woman. . . . Am I, a woman, to be deprived of the chivalrous protection with which Americans always have guarded any woman's name.

"Blunderers that they are, they do not see that they are trying to drag down into the abyss not only Aimee Semple McPherson, not only Angelus Temple, but Christianity throughout the earth. The Devil's convention is at its height—because, in Angeles Temple, hundreds of souls are being brought to Jesus!"

Keyes Promises Report
Indicating that the investigation by Los Angeles county authorities into the alleged kidnapping of Mrs.

'SHAME' TRIAL AT TIA JUANA NEARING END

(By United Press)
TIA JUANA, Mex., July 28.—The Petet "shame death" trial will be completed some time today, Judge S. Urias announced when the court convened this morning in the cases against four Mexicans, charged with attacking Audrey and Clyde Petet.

"We will complete the trial today if we have to remain in session until midnight," the judge stated.

The alleged attacks upon the two girls were held responsible for the suicides of Thomas Petet, his wife and daughters by a coroner's jury, which investigated the case in San Diego last February.

American newspapermen, here to cover the trial, were attempting to secure special permission of American customs officials to cross the border after 6 p. m., if a night session is necessary.

Adding their bit to the defense of the four men, three uniformed Mexican policemen were the first witnesses to take the stand as the second day of the trial got under way.

Each witness contributed something to the general story of the defense, which thus far appears to be merely an attempt to prove that the Petet girls were "wanton" and their parents drunkards.

A lone woman today stood as the only defender of Clyde and Audrey Petet, in the trial of four men here for crimes alleged responsible for the Petet "shame suicides."

While other witnesses condemned the dead girls, Mrs. Marie Anderson, proprietor of the San Diego hotel here, where the Petets stayed, refused to say anything derogatory of the young women.

"I cannot say a thing against the Petet girls," Mrs. Anderson stated from the witness stand yesterday.

SWEDISH ROYALTY BAY CITY GUESTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—San Francisco set out today to entertain Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus and Crown Princess Louise, of Sweden, who will be here until August 3.

The crown prince and his party arrived yesterday from Yosemite, their special train making stops enroute at Turlock, Merced and other San Joaquin valley cities. At Turlock, he made an impromptu talk to several thousand agriculturists, interrupting himself to remark:

"There are many of my countrymen here. Tell me—how many of you speak Swedish?"

"A majority of hands went up and the crown prince completed his talk in his native tongue.

Between automobile trips to various interesting points in the bay region, the crown prince and princess will be guests at luncheons, teas, banquets and social gatherings. They will sail August 3 for Honolulu, enroute to the Orient.

WIFE-BEATER JAILED

TWO KILLED IN MEXICAN CHURCH WAR

Mob of Citizens Lynches Mayor of City After He Slays Imprisoned Priest

GIRL IS UNDER ARREST

Young Woman Accused of Destroying Notices on Nation's Religious Laws

(By United Press)
MEXICO CITY, July 28.—Dispatches from Aguascalientes, published in the Graphic here, state a group of citizens of the town of Nochistlan, in the state of Zacatecas, killed the mayor of their city because of his imprisoning a local priest, Humberto Cervantes.

Another account, also published in the Graphic, stated that the mayor shot and killed the priest, and that the lynching was due to this act.

If the reports are confirmed, the affair will mark the first bloodshed in Mexico's religious controversy.

Girl Arrested by Gendarmes
Senorita Emma Padilla, 17-year-old daughter of a wealthy family, has been arrested by gendarmes in a villa at Guadalupe Hidalgo, charged with destroying government notices of the new religious laws which were placed on the walls of the famous Guadalupe Basilica, in accordance with the decree of July 2.

Following her arrest late yesterday, she was held in jail, her father being unable to obtain 500 pesos bail until banks opened today.

Catholic women of Mexico have appealed to the wife of President Calles to exert her influence with her husband to lessen the severity of the religious laws.

The religious situation has been somewhat changed by the determination of the government to take over churches when they are abandoned by priests, inasmuch as this step is more likely to provoke religious strife than if the churches were left open to worshippers.

Serious Disorder Not Expected
Neutral observers here, however, are still convinced that serious disorders will not result from the putting into effect of the new laws.

The opinion is based on the fact that the church discourages use of force and no unity exists among the individuals most strenuously opposing the change.

Furthermore, any elements of the population attempting to instigate serious disorders would face the best equipped and disciplined army in the history of Mexico.

If trouble does come, it is expected to be in the interior, where the Indian population predominates, rather than in the large cities.

Jury In Killing Probe Adjourns

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 28.—The grand jury investigating the slaying of D. E. Chipps, prominent lumberman, by Dr. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist church, adjourned at noon today without making a report. The jury will meet again Thursday. The grand jury is ending its investigation of the Norris shooting apparently without examination of the "mystery witness," who was said by Norris to have been an eye-witness to the shooting.

GUARDS BALK ATTEMPTED RIOT AT STATE'S PRISON

(By United Press)
SAN QUENTIN, July 28.—An attempted riot of prisoners at San Quentin was frustrated by guards after one convict had sustained a probable fractured skull, it became known today.

News of the disturbance, which occurred the first of this week, came with the dispatch of George Miehl, a guard, because of his failure to be at his designated post when the commotion began.

While prisoners were being marched to work outside the walls, one of the single-file lines was seen to mass in the center. Guards hurried to investigate and on dispersing the men, found Paul Case, a prisoner from Los Angeles county, lying unconscious with severe head injuries.

Information gathered by the guards indicated that the prisoners suspected Case of being a "stool pigeon" and had determined upon his punishment.

Three prisoners, Harry E. Thomas, Alameda county; Sam L. Jones, Modoc county; and John M. Wright, Los Angeles, were committed to the dungeon to be questioned regarding complicity in the disturbance.

Synod Votes Confidence In Will Hays

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—Despite bitter opposition, the California synod of the Presbyterian church was on record today in a resolution "expressing abiding confidence in Ruling Elder Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America." The resolution was attacked by Dr. G. A. Briggles, pastor of the Westlake Presbyterian church who told members of the synod that the adoption of the resolution would be interpreted by the world as an endorsement by the Presbyterian ministry of the motion picture industry as a whole. It passed by a slight majority.

PARENTS RUSH IN AIRPLANE TO SEE HURT SON

Following reports that their son, Neil Granger, had been seriously injured in an automobile accident near Vacaville, Solano county, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Granger, 637 East Chapman avenue, East Orange, left this morning in an airplane from the Martin airport for Sacramento, where the youth was taken.

A Hamilton, a companion of Granger, also was injured in the accident, although his injuries are not considered serious, it is said.

Granger was taken to the Fairfield hospital for examination and was rushed shortly afterward to the Center hospital, Sacramento. He was believed to have suffered a fractured skull.

Fairfield authorities notified the youth's parents in Orange.

Granger and his companion, a Los Angeles boy, were said to have been returning to their homes from Harvard university.

ACTOR-PRIEST IS ARRAIGNED IN N. Y. COURT

Judge Orders Man Charged With Murder in Orange County Detained 30 Days

OFFICERS ON WAY EAST No Trouble Anticipated In Extradition to California of Alleged Slayer

PENDING arrival of Santa Ana officers to return him to Orange county for trial, the Rev. Philip A. Goodwin, 29, pastor and vaudeville actor, under arrest in New York City in connection with the murder of Joseph J. Patterson, bond broker, was today held without bail for 30 days, when his case was called in the West Side court, New York, today, according to information received here.

Orla Moncrief, chief jailer, and D. T. Davidson, Los Angeles deputy sheriff, are speeding eastward to take Goodwin in custody.

Moncrief left Sacramento Tuesday with extradition papers, signed by Governor Richardson, for the return of Goodwin, and Davidson left Los Angeles on the same day. They will meet in New York City and return together with the prisoner.

Must Get Smith's Signature
Sheriff Sam Jenkins, who made a trip to Sacramento to secure the signature of Governor Richardson to the extradition paper, said today that Moncrief probably would reach Albany, N. Y., Friday morning. It will be necessary for Moncrief to get the signature of Gov. Al Smith to the papers before the prisoner is placed in his charge.

Provided there is no hitch in securing Smith's signature to the papers, Moncrief should be in New York City by Saturday night, at the latest. He and Davidson are expected to start back to Santa Ana with their prisoner not later than Monday morning, and should be in Santa Ana before the end of next week.

Jernigan said today he did not expect any difficulty in obtaining the prisoner.

Renew Search for Cowboy
Here, the sheriff's office is extending its search for Albert Gaines, Utah cowboy, also wanted in connection with the murder of Patterson, whose body was found in the Santa Ana canyon, on the night of March 23.

Although Ogden, his home town, has been combed, no trace of the man has been found, it was reported. Police in Salt Lake City also reported that they were unable to locate the cowboy, who was said to have been friendly with Patterson and who was asserted to have been seen with Goodwin just prior to Patterson's death.

According to word received here today, counsel for Goodwin, in the New York court, stated that his client was not the man wanted in California for the murder of Patterson. He intimated that he may apply for a writ of habeas corpus to obtain Patterson's release.

Goodwin was arrested in New York 10 days ago, on information given New York police by Sheriff Jernigan.

Governors Hold Cheyenne Meet

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 28.—George B. Young, president of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform Laws, delivered the principal address before the governors' conference here today. Adam McMullen, governor of Nebraska, was another speaker.

At a meeting held last night, Gov. John W. Martin, of Florida, assailed the federal income tax law and declared that his state would resist further collection of this tax.

The governors will don four-gallon hats this afternoon and watch the cayuses, each of which has been named after a governor, perform at the Frontier Days celebration.

AIMEE PLEADS PUBLIC ACCORD HER FAIR PLAY

McPherson is rapidly drawing to a close, District Attorney Asa Keyes announced at noon today that he will make public, probably late today, a complete report of the case. "I am going to inform the public in a full statement just what our office has discovered in this investigation," Keyes said, "and at the same time explain why the grand jury failed to return indictments and why, according to the law, it is impossible for any action to be taken in the McPherson case as it now stands."

The district attorney qualified his announcement by adding that his promised action depends upon the report made by Deputy District Attorney Joseph Ryan and Chief of Detectives Herman Cline, when they returned to Los Angeles late today from Monterey and Carmel, where they claim they secured "conclusive evidence" which will clear the mystery surrounding the case.

MONTEREY OFFICIALS LAUNCH INVESTIGATION

MONTEREY, Calif., July 28.—Expressing belief that there is yet much to be unearthed in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson elvish centering around Carmel, Monterey county officials today opened an independent investigation, while Los Angeles authorities went south to present their latest findings to their grand jury.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph Ryan and Captain of Detectives Herman Cline, of Los Angeles county, have declared they have proved, to their own satisfaction at least, that the evangelist and Kenneth G. Ormiston, her former radio operator, spent several days at a Carmel bungalow immediately following Mrs. McPherson's disappearance from the seashore at Ocean Park.

Local Probe Continues
At a conference between Chief of Police W. C. Gabrielson, of Monterey, and Argyll Campbell, deputy district attorney, of Monterey county, it was agreed that Gabrielson shall continue his independent investigation, even should Los Angeles officials drop the Carmel angle entirely.

The Los Angeles authorities expressed hope that on their return Mrs. McPherson might be induced to permit comparison of her fingerprints with those found on articles in the Carmel house, despite her refusal yesterday to send her fingerprints to Carmel for comparison.

They also will attempt to compare her handwriting with that found on laundry slips at Carmel. Chief Gabrielson said the case was further strengthened today with the report from the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, that no "George McIntyre" was registered when the man, who had been known by that name at Carmel, was presumed to have written from there. "McIntyre" wrote his former Carmel landlord, enclosing money for payment of small bills, and gave the Hotel Pennsylvania as his new address.

Unearth More Evidence
Part of an inside section of a trunk, a pocket knife and a wash rag were among other bits of evidence unearthed today at the cottage occupied by "Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre." These, with the books, radio set, aprons, handwritings, samples, hairpins and affidavits of persons who claimed to have identified "Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre" as Ormiston and Mrs. McPherson, will be presented to the Los Angeles grand jury.

The investigation by Monterey county authorities will be for the present an unofficial effort, according to District Attorney Albert E. Warth, who issued the following statement:

"At the present time, we have no evidence of the commission of any crime in Monterey county. Until such time as such evidence is presented to this office, no action will be taken by the district attorney's office of Monterey county."

Gabrielson plans to turn the case over to Warth if any evidence of a crime is discovered.

INVESTIGATION MAY BE BROUGHT TO CLOSE
LOS ANGELES, July 28.—With Aimee Semple McPherson adhering to a policy of non-co-operation with authorities who claim to have solved the mystery connected with her disappearance on May 13, local officials admitted today that the investigation may come to an abrupt halt.

Deputy District Attorney Joseph Ryan and Chief of Detectives Herman Cline were expected to arrive in Los Angeles late today to submit to District Attorney Asa Keyes a report of what they learned on a trip to Carmel and Monterey.

Claim Evidence Conclusive
Ryan and Cline claim to have "conclusive evidence" that Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator of Angelus temple, rented a bungalow in Carmel for a woman identified as Mrs. McPherson and that she occupied the cottage with Ormiston for several days.

Mrs. McPherson was said to be "out" when newspapermen telephoned her home today.

Members of the evangelist's legal staff, headed by Arthur Veitch and Roland R. Woolley, scored the request of Detective Cline that Mrs. McPherson submit to fingerprint tests for comparison with prints found on articles in the Carmel bungalow.

Calls Request Useless
"The request for the fingerprints is as useless as the request that Mrs. McPherson go to Carmel," Veitch said.

Mrs. McPherson's "defiance" plan became known today, when Attorney Woolley asserted: "There's been too much bunk put out, and now we are going to change our plan of co-operating in these foolish quest."

BOMB HURLED AT MELLETT HOME

CANTON, O., July 28.—A gas bomb was hurled at the home of Don R. Mellett, murdered publisher of the Canton Daily News, this afternoon, from an automobile which dashed by the house loaded with unidentified men.

Mrs. Mellett, widow of the slain reformer, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lloyd Mellett, who were sitting on the porch, were made ill by the fumes. Two children in the house were overcome.

Detective Wise was in the cellar making an investigation when the bomb exploded. He gave chase to the bombers, but was unable to catch their automobile.

Operatives working on the murder mystery said they believed the bomb was thrown by Canton gangsters, whose insolence has increased with failure of outside detectives to find Mellett's murderers.

Imperial Valley Editor To Seek Colorado Action

EL CENTRO, July 28.—M. D. Witter, editor and publisher of the Brawley News, long a courageous and independent figure in Southern California journalism, is going to Sacramento as a member of the legislature to battle for the state legislation necessary to effectuate the Boulder dam and all-American canal of the Colorado river project.

This was decided here by ranchers and business men from throughout the Imperial valley, who insisted that Witter accept the Republican nomination, after the editor had steadfastly refused to take the time away from his newspaper.

Four years ago, Witter was one of the staunch supporters of Friend Richardson in the Imperial valley. A few months ago, after having failed in repeated efforts to get an expression from Governor Richardson favorable to the Boulder dam and all-American canal project, Witter denounced the governor editorially.

The Imperial Valley Press, of El Centro, and the Enterprise, of Imperial, already have announced their editorial support of Witter's enforced candidacy.

Man Accused of Beating Woman

Accused of "beating up" a woman on the highway south of San Juan Capistrano yesterday afternoon, Charlie Bowser, 25, was arrested last night by State Officers Clever and Stinson and lodged in jail.

Today he was taken to San Juan Capistrano to face a misdemeanor charge before Justice John Landell.

Officers intimated that they would hold the man for immigration officials, following the alleged finding of a passport on his person, on which was said to have been printed, "not good north of San Diego."

Helen Wins First Test in Tourney

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y., July 28.—Helen Wills today won her first match since her recent operation in Paris, when she defeated Mrs. Edw. Raymond, 6-1, 6-4, in the second round of the East Hampton tournament which opened here.

Miss Wills appeared a bit pale as she won on the court and she seemed to favor herself through the play, yet her opponent at no time gave her any trouble.

grand jury to investigate the McPherson case further if there is no evidence pointing to the commission of a crime.

Aimee Still in L. A.
Reports that Aimee Semple McPherson had departed for Monterey early today proved groundless when the evangelist and her mother, Mrs. Mina Kennedy, returned to Angelus temple shortly before noon.

"We were just enjoying an automobile ride," Mrs. Kennedy told reporters. "We can't be expected to stay cooped up all of the time."

The report that the evangelist and her mother were enroute to Monterey started when it was learned the couple departed in an automobile early today without making known their destination.

Lunch Periods
For Students
Decided Upon

A considerable portion of last night's regular meeting of the Santa Ana school board was devoted to a discussion of the time and length of the luncheon period for the various grades and schools in the district.

After listening to various suggestions and recommendations, it was voted to establish a uniform lunch period for all schools in the district, from 11:20 a. m. to 12, for the senior and junior high schools, and a full hour for the elementary schools, the latter to include the identical period set aside for the high schools.

In the course of the discussion it was brought out that many pupils take luncheon at home. A uniform luncheon period for all schools would enable students in various grades, attending different schools, but belonging to the same family, to have their meals together, thus eliminating inconvenience to the parents.

REVOLVER USED IN SUSPECTED SUICIDE FOUND

The revolver used by Willard Brownson, 20-year-old son of R. R. Brownson, wealthy Upland rancher, when he shot himself in the right temple on picturesque Woods point, at Laguna Beach, yesterday afternoon, was found early this morning at low tide.

The gun, a .32-caliber pistol, was located by Judge L. B. Murphy and Gus Derkum near the point where the body was found after its 35-foot plunge from the top of the cliff. One shell had been exploded.

All evidence points to the case as being one of suicide, although the father says that he can think of no reason why his son should have taken his own life. Young Brownson was a student at the University of Virginia.

The Brownsons have a summer cottage at Laguna Beach.

An inquest has been called for this afternoon in the Smith and Tutthill parlors, by Coroner Charles D. Brown.

Original Party Given As Compliment for August Bride

INTEREST of Santa Ana friends of Miss Mary Covington, formerly of this city but now of Glendale, is centered in her plans to wed Louis Head of Brawley, on August 15, and that interest has been shown in no more delightful manner than the shower planned in her honor by Miss Eunice Jones and Miss Rebecca Oglesby and given at the end of last week at the Oglesby home on Edgewood Road.

Dresses in pale hues with pink and white predominating, were used in effective decoration of the home. Several amusing games, all with a romantic theme, were played, one original one called "Bridal of the Bride" and another a little love story read eloquently by Miss Eunice Jones who paused at intervals for the guests to fill in a blank with a word that fitted and yet was the name of one of those present.

The showery nature of the afternoon was shown in a clever fashion when the hostesses directed the guests one at a time, to the "wishing well," a picturesque well curbed with long sweeps. As they drew up the bucket, each uttered a wish for the bride as a pink heart was removed from the bucket. Each heart bore directions for Miss Covington to search in some strange spot for a package and she was rewarded with an array of lovely gifts of miscellaneous nature.

At the refreshment hour, trays with pink edged dainties and nut baskets in rose and heart shapes, each surmounted by a Kewpie, were distributed for the serving of ices, cake and other dainties, in which the rose tints predominated.

Among those present in addition to hostesses and honoree, the Misses Oglesby, Jones and Covington, were the latter's sisters, the Misses Sallis and Ella-Jo Covington of Glendale; Mesdames Herbert Covington, Tom Oglesby, Carl DuRall, Leon Elliott, Lawrence Phillips, Iva Hallman, Nathaniel Travis, A. A. Jones and T. W. Oglesby; the Misses Mabel Ozment, Grace Ozment, Minnie Kozier, Marian Young, Metta Rossman, Norma Rossman, Carolyn Haughton, Ruth Oakes, Hazel Greenleaf, Vena Jones of this city; Miss Rosella Robinson, Glendale; Miss Katherine Allen and Mrs. R. E. Phillips, Los Angeles.

Guests at Musicales Are Privileged to Hear Artists

SATURDAY evening, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pankratz of Tustin avenue, Orange, entertained most delightfully for a number of friends with an informal musicale. Their guests had the rare treat of hearing Vladimir Linzka, famous concert violinist, play upon his wonderful instrument.

The violin is the oldest in the world, having been made in 1516, and the only genuine "Gaspard Dufftopfgrugger" known. It has been played in turn by almost every great master violinist of the past and, as Mr. Linzka unfolded bits of its history and related some of his own interesting experiences, his hearers sat spellbound. His playing is remarkable for its warmth and sympathetic interpretation and all were so stirred that they almost forgot to applaud. He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Cleo Johnstons of Los Angeles, pupil of Thilo Becker, and a remarkable performer, who played with flawless technique.

Mr. and Mrs. Linzka are spending the vacation months with Mrs. Linzka's mother, Mrs. Reed at Costa Mesa.

Contributing further to the program of the evening was Otis G. Mercer of Pasadena, whose artistic playing of the steel guitar charmed with a sweetness unusual to this popular instrument. Mr. Mercer also sang most beautifully, "Gypsy Trail," "The Slave Song" and "Lad-die," accompanied by Miss Marjorie Caldwell of Orange.

Miss Muriel Hively, also of Orange, who has had two years of study abroad, pleased with a girl's freshness in her singing of a group of Spanish songs. Miss Caldwell was her gracious accompanist and later rendering a piano solo which was greatly enjoyed.

Last, but by no means least appreciated by her admiring friends, were "Bowl of Roses," "Berceuse" from Joselyn and "Just a Warning" for You, sung by Mrs. Pankratz, who possesses a rich contralto voice full of melody and tenderness.

At a late hour Mrs. Pankratz invited her guests to the dining room where, assisted by Mr. Pankratz and Miss Hively, she served delicious refreshments. The table was beautiful with a centerpiece of pink sweet peas and blue delphinium in a blue bowl with tall pink candles at the sides.

Those enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Pankratz and their son, Willis, aside from those mentioned on the program, were: William Lamapach of U. S. C. Los Angeles, who is also a violinist, Mrs. Linzka and young brother, Master Reed, Costa Mesa; Mrs. Otis G. Mercer, Pasadena; Mrs. W. A. Hively, Miss Bonnie Alt and Miss Nelson, Orange; Mrs. Sue Sweet, Miss Lottie Sweet and Miss Alma Sweet, Santa Ana.

Paris Recalls Taffeta to Her Favor

THREE MODELS OF THE NEW TAFFETA FROCK AS DEVELOPED IN PARIS: AT THE LEFT, ONE BY GRANET IN GREEN; BY CHERIUT IN BLACK, AT THE RIGHT; AND LOUISE BOULANGER'S DESIGN IN SOFT ORCHID IN THE CENTER.

The taffeta frock which returns to fashion's fold this season is not the one which suddenly found itself dropped a few seasons ago. It has developed many qualities during its social eclipse which make it much more valuable than formerly.

One of the most noticeable of these is versatility. Many women objected to taffeta because it gave them the feeling of being dressed up. They couldn't feel casual in it as they could in crepe or satin. And one taffeta frock was very much like another.

Used for Anything
This year, however, taffeta will do anything. It is equally appropriate for the most formal and picturesque type of robe de style, or for the morning frock or the sport outfit.

French collections have given taffeta the place of honor in their exhibitions, and have achieved some of their most charming effects with it.

Nothing is more effective than the new plaid and striped taffetas in which the most subtle colors are blended into a colorful and exciting, but not blatant whole.

The three models, all French importations, show taffeta in some of its newest phases.
Cool, Green Model
At the left is a Granet model, with green, in a cool, fresh tint, as the prevailing tone. Three stripes are of yellow, red and blue and the neck is finished with a round white organdie collar. Four tiers of accordion pleated ruffles form the short skirt. The sleeves are fastened with taffeta covered buttons caught with green silk cords.

I must mention the hat as being particularly well suited to this type of frock. It is a Rebois model, featuring the new coronet crown, and it is in green corded silk.

At the right is Cherlut's model of soft black taffeta with an irregularly scalloped full skirt. All its edges as well as the tricky little pockets are finished with braid. With this is worn a blouse of wash silk in pink and white candy stripes. I like this skirt line particularly, and the fullness at the sides. Naturally, it must be worn very short in front.

Taffeta of Orchid
In the center is Louise Boulanger's most original design for spring, employing taffeta in soft orchid tones. It is cut with the bolero jacket in front, a cut Paris loves, and has a short full skirt embroidered with darning stitch in a lighter shade of taffeta. These form squares which run into the irregular border of orchid taffeta. A distinguishing feature is the narrow sash beginning at either hip and tied in a bow in front, forcing the fullness to give the popular width at the hips.

It dips at the back and is shorter in front, as are many of the newest French models.
The new taffeta departs greatly in texture from that of a decade ago, being soft and lustrous instead of stiff and dull, and can be adapted to suit any cut.

Newcomer to Join Conservatory Staff

Here as house-guests of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Clantoni and family, 632 North Ross street, Mr. and Mrs. Agostino Pestolesi and little daughter Gloria, have decided to forsake Philadelphia and the east and make their home in Santa Ana.

Mr. Pestolesi is a brother-in-law of Mr. Clantoni and has been associated with him since boyhood, first as student, then as assistant teacher in the Clantoni School of Music, Philadelphia and Erie, Pa., and also as librarian with the famous Clantoni band of Philadelphia. He will now be connected with the local Conservatory of Music as teacher of reed instruments. For the past year he has been associated with F. P. Culey and Son, exclusive dealers of Kimball grand pianos.

Little Gloria Pestolesi, five-year-old daughter of the newcomers, is an exceptionally talented little maid, and Mr. Clantoni has placed her under the instruction of Gladys Simpson Shafer of the dramatic department of the conservatory, for tutelage in expression.

Santa Ana Vocalists Praised by Maestro

Isadore Braggiotti, famous Florentine singer, now in Los Angeles and under whom Madame Manuela V. Budrow is studying this summer, expressed a desire to hear some of her advanced singers and on last Saturday Madame Budrow took Robert Bradford, Edward Delgado, Arthur Smith, Mrs. Ruth Madlener and Carl Woolenman to the noted teacher.

Braggiotti gave the students and their teacher unstinted praise in their work. The famous artist and Madame Budrow use the same school of music, that of Garcia, who was Braggiotti's teacher, and she feels that she has gained a great deal through the opportunity to take some higher work.

The Italian master will teach six months in Boston after leaving Los Angeles.

O. M. ROBBINS, Secretary

SHERMAN HAD AFFECTION FOR GREAT SOUTH

WORCESTER, Mass., July 28.—A significant letter, written by Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, whose bust was unveiled recently in the Hall of Fame in New York, revealing a warm sentiment in his soldier heart for the south he knew so well, yet so aggressively fought, has been found in the archives of the American Antiquarian Society in Worcester, Mass.

The letter was penned in the thick of General Sherman's epochal advance upon Atlanta, at the head of the invading Union forces, in the summer of 1864, to Mrs. Annie Gilman Bowen, a chum of his boyhood days, the daughter of Mrs. Caroline H. Gilman, of one of the aristocratic southern families. At the time, Mrs. Bowen was in Baltimore, while her mother lived in Charleston, S. C.

A cannon ball, fired from a Union gun from Ft. Sumter when the Confederate forces captured the fort in April, 1861, and which landed in the attic of Mrs. Gilman's Charleston home, was sent by Mrs. Bowen, after the war, along with the letter of General Sherman, to the American Antiquarian Society. General Sherman's letter, never before made public, reveals his solicitude for the feelings of his old southern friends, to whose hospitality, before the war, he gallantly alludes, while at the same time insisting, with soldierly vehemence, that the war must go on in spite of what he calls its "desolation, carnage and anguish."

Letter Shows Feeling
The letter, vibrantly revealing the real emotions of General Sherman in his remorseless, resistless advance upon the south, was as follows:

"Headquarters Military Division of the Mississippi.
"In the Field, near Marietta, Ga., June 30, 1864.

"Dear Madam: Your welcome letter of June 18 came to me here amid the sound of battle and, as you say, little did I dream when I knew you playing as a schoolgirl on Sullivan's Island beach, that I should control a vast army pointing like the swarm of Alaric toward the plains of the south. Why, oh, why, is this? If I know my own heart, it beats as warmly as ever toward those kind and generous families that greeted us with such warm hospitality in days long past but still present in memory, and today were Frank and Mrs. Porcher, or Eliza Gilman, or Mary Lamb, or Margaret Blake, the Barksdales, the Quashes, the Poyes, indeed, any and all of our cherished circle, their children, or even their children's children, to come to me as of old, the stern feelings of duty would melt, as snow before the genial sun, and I believe I would strip my own children, or even their children's tattered, and yet they call me barbarian, vandal, a monster and all the epithets that language can invent that are significant of malignity and hate.

"All I pretend to say is, on earth as in heaven, man must submit to some arbiter. He must not throw off his allegiance to his government or his God without just reason and cause. The south, by her unjustifiable course, laid open her fair country to the tread of devastating war. Had we declined battle, America would have sunk back, coward and craven, meriting the contempt of all mankind. As a nation, we were forced to accept battle, and that once begun, it has gone on till the war has assumed proportions at which even we in the hurly-burly sometimes stand aghast.

Same Law For All
"I would not subjugate the south in the sense so offensively assumed, but I would make every citizen of the land obey the common law, submit to the same that we do—no worse, no better—our equals and not our superiors. God only knows how reluctantly we accepted the issue, but once the issue joined, though slow to anger, once aroused, are more terrible than the more inflammable of the south.

"Even yet my heart bleeds when I see the carnage of battle, the desolation of homes, the bitter anguish of families, but the very moment the men of the south say that instead of appealing to war they should have appealed to reason, to our congress, to our courts, to religion and to the experience of history, then will I say peace, peace, resume your places as American citizens with all their proud heritage. Whether I shall live to see this period is problematical, but you may and may tell your mother and sisters that I never forgot one kind look or greeting, or wished to efface its remembrance, but that in putting on the armor of war, I did it that our common country should not perish in infamy and dishonor.

Cites His Own Family
"I am married—have a wife and six children living in Lancaster, O. My career has been an eventful one, but I hope when the clouds of anger and passion are dispersed and truth emerges bright and clear, you and all who knew me in early years will not blush that we were once friends. Tell Eliza for me that I hope she may live to realize that the doctrine of secession is as monstrous in our civil code as disobedience was in the divine law.

"And should the fortunes of war ever bring your mother or sisters or any of our old clique under the shelter of my authority, I do not believe they will have cause to regret it. Give my love to your children and the assurances of my respect to your honored husband. Truly, W. T. SHERMAN, Maj. Gen."

General Sherman's memoirs show that at the time the letter was written he was in the midst of the heaviest fighting in the advance upon Atlanta in September, 1864, and after that sea his famous march to the sea, so disastrous to the Confederate fortunes.

Scotch thistles came to America by accident. Emigrants from England brought the seeds in mattresses of thistledown, which they threw away when worn out.

Yes, Corn Grows Tall In Missouri

HUNTSVILLE, Mo., July 28.—The tall corn stories have begun. Corn-belt farmers, having plowed and cultivated their fields into the assurance of a successful year, have turned to the creation of fiction. Several reports that they were lost for days in their fields. One Randolph county man declares he will saw his corn stalks up into firewood. A falling stalk is said to have broken the backs of a team of mules.

If all the tall corn stories were placed end to end, they would lie—and lie and lie.

PROPOSAL FOR NEW HOSPITAL IS SUPPORTED

The meeting Friday night, of directors of chambers of commerce and physicians of the county, in the chapel at the county hospital, for discussion of financing plans for a general hospital, will be held at 7:30, it was announced today by George Raymer, secretary of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. According to Raymer, residents of the county are manifesting the greatest interest in the project and indications pointed to the attendance of many not included in the groups represented by directors of chambers and by physicians. The secretary pointed out that the conference is open to anyone who may be interested in the discussions.

As previously announced, the meeting is for the purpose of considering plans for selecting the supervisors to make an appropriation of $200,000 for the construction and equipment of a general hospital to be located on the county property, on which the county hospital is located.

The new plant is not contemplated, in any sense, as a county hospital, operated on the lines of the present plant. Advocates of the proposition assert that proper hospitalization for the sick of the county is more or less an obligation of the general public and that appropriation, by the county, of the funds needed for the building and equipment, would pass the costs to the general public. It is not contemplated that maintenance costs should become an obligation of the county, the advocates expressing the belief that the hospital would be more than self-supporting. As discussed, direction of the enterprise would be in the hands of a board of trustees, composed of persons not identified with the medical profession.

2 HURT WHEN CAR STRIKES SWEEPER

A boy and a girl, returning home at 12:15 a. m., today were slightly injured when their automobile collided with a city street sweeper, at Fourteenth and North Main streets, according to a report filed with the city police. Miss Elizabeth Nicholson, Yorba Linda, Route No. 1, suffered a badly cut knee, and her escort, Elmer Smith, 15, Yorba Linda, driver of the machine, suffered a bruised hip and cuts about the face.

According to the police, the Smith machine and the sweeper were traveling in the same direction and the Smith machine sideswiped the city vehicle, the Smith machine overturning. L. O. Bachman, 946 West Chestnut street, driver of the sweeper, was not hurt.

Illinois Town Is Out of Debt and Has Big Balance

PRINCETON, Ill., July 28.—Princeton's city purse bulges comfortably. And Princeton residents are eager to hear from any other city of 5000 population as comfortably situated financially.

For Princeton is free from debt, has 45,000 in the treasury and public assets aggregating $94,334. The average Illinois city of 5000 or over is considerably in debt and finds it difficult to find money to meet its obligations. The larger the city, the more acute the shortage.

Economical management by the city council is given credit for Princeton's comfortable status, and also from the profits of the water and light plant.

Total annual revenue averages $190,000, while the expenses average $166,000.

Scientists recently discovered a tangle of knots which, translated, reveal a knowledge of the Deluge among America's earliest civilized people, the Incas. The first white civilizers are said to have come to America 2300 years ago, centuries before Columbus was born.

During 1925, there were 115,473 street accidents in Great Britain, and some 3,971 of these were fatal.

GRACE ROWLEY RETURNING TO WORK IN CHINA

Completing a year's vacation and visit to relatives and friends here, Miss Grace Rowley sailed at noon yesterday, from Los Angeles harbor, on the President Polk, for Weihaiien, Shantung province, China, where she will resume her work as principal of a high school for girls, the school being maintained by the Presbyterian church.

Miss Rowley's departure yesterday was on the same day and about the same hour she arrived here a year ago. More than 50 close friends of Miss Rowley were at the dock to bid her goodbye.

Friends noted with interest that the returning missionary carried three combs of honey, inclosed in a wire frame, the combs containing a number of queen bees, which Miss Rowley will deliver to missionary friends in China. Another mysterious package contained two carrier pigeons, owned by Howard Bear, who asked her to release them two hours out from San Pedro, to see if they could find their way home.

Flying for the first time over water, the pigeons reached Santa Ana near 5 p. m. Their arrival home disclosed that Miss Rowley had accepted the opportunity to pen a farewell note to the friends which she was leaving. Here is part of the message:

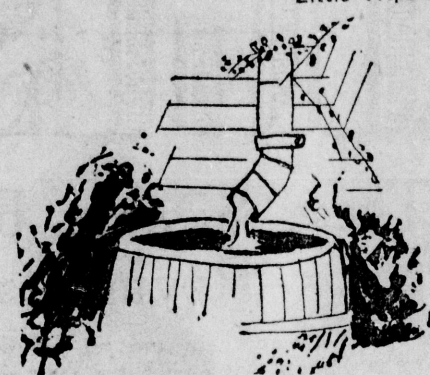

"Goodbye, everybody. Thank you all for coming so far to see me off. I did appreciate it so much. Having such good friends makes it doubly hard to leave. Thanks, everybody, for all you have done for me. I would like to stay with you longer, but China calls me. We are sending the pigeons at 2:15 p. m., just two hours from starting. I hope they arrive home safely. A little missionary girl on board is helping me start them. She is very much interested."

During 1925 four and a quarter billion fish and more than a billion fish eggs were placed in American waters.

An average of one shipwreck a day is the toll of the sea each year.

Soft Water makes clothing whiter

Little Trips to a Modern Laundry No. 6

OLD-TIME RAIN BARREL
"But It Was Soft Water"

You remember the water from the old rain barrel—how soft and clean looking it made the clothes. Remember how the soap lathered?

Imagine now, water that is free from dust, stain and odor of the roof—clean, sparkling, healthful water that is as soft as falling rain. That is the water we use.

You see illustrated below a modern filter type water softener. This is not a method for breaking water, but a real softener that delivers water for our use that is actually softer than falling rain.

Soft water forms no gummy curds to cling to fabrics. It makes the white clothes whiter and preserves the natural richness of the colors. Woolens, silks, and all fine lingerie, that are washable, can be laundered without danger to colors or fabric.

This soft water is connected with every department and is used in every laundering process. You are invited to come and see this softener in operation and drink of this perfect, soft water.

SECOND-HAND IRRIGATION PUMPS TO BE OFFERED TO RANCHERS

Opportunity to Obtain Reconditioned Pumps at Fraction of Real Worth

Turbine Centrifugal and Plunger Pumps Offered

Pomona, Calif., July 28.—Many ranchers and irrigation companies, requiring new pumps for the purpose of developing a larger supply of water or for deeper lifts, have found it necessary to sacrifice their old pumps at a fraction of the real value of the equipment. The Pomona Manufacturing Company of this city, in accepting orders for new pumps, have maintained a policy of making a small allowance for these old pumps to apply upon the purchase price of new ones.

The result has been that during the past two years this concern has been adding to its stock of old equipment and because of rush business made no effort to sell them.

During the past 60 days, however, all of these used pumps have been completely disassembled, inspected and thoroughly reconditioned so that they are now said to be practically as good as new. A special used pump department has been opened and the local concern plans to offer its pumps at prices that will barely cover the cost of reconditioning.

Dozens of pumps are included in the stock—Plunger Pumps ranging from 5 to 80 horsepower and a limited number of Turbine Centrifugal types, so that the pump purchaser who is seeking a bargain price may be able to pick up just the pump he needs from this used assortment and save several hundred dollars.

If necessary to add more bowls or stages, or column pipe this can be done at slight cost.

It is the plan of the Pomona Manufacturing Company to issue with each used pump a factory warranty covering the workmanship and condition so that the purchaser will have virtually the same protection as he would if selecting a new pump. In order to assist purchasers in financing an easy payment plan has been devised.

Prospective pump buyers can obtain full information regarding these reconditioned pumps by writing to the manufacturers in Pomona, W. H. Day, in charge of the Used Pump Department, suggests that the inquirer state what type and capacity of pump he requires so that the most complete information can be forwarded.

ITALIAN MUSIC WILL FEATURE BAND CONCERT

Compositions by Italian composers will be featured in the program to be presented in Birch park by the Santa Ana Municipal band in its third summer concert, to be presented at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow, it was announced today by D. C. Cianfoni, director.

Featuring the program will be "La Cavalleria Rusticana" (Mascagni) and the overture, "La Gazza Ladra" (Rossini). A medley of Italian folk songs, familiar to the American public, also will be offered, as will also the ever popular quartet from "Rigoletto" and selections from "Il Trovatore," by Verdi.

Maurice Phillips, Santa Ana baritone soloist, will participate and will sing "Good Bye" (Tosti). Director Cianfoni will play a trombone solo, "Il Bacio" (The Kiss), by Arditi.

As the band is featuring compositions of different nationalities, the program tomorrow will be dedicated to Pietro Mascagni, composer of "La Cavalleria Rusticana," and Giuseppe Verdi, composer of "Il Trovatore" and "Rigoletto." The director today said that he and the members of the band were very much pleased at the co-operation being given by city officials in the maintenance of order during the playing of numbers. He also expressed the appreciation of the organization for the co-operation being given by residents and children.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR 'TAB' PAPERS

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Appointed as receiver by Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick, John Brodix prepared today to take over the properties of Vanderbilt Newspapers, Inc.

Appointment of Brodix as receiver followed the filing of a petition by O. M. Souden, who asserted the total value of the properties would not exceed $250,000. Liabilities were said to amount to more than $1,000,000.

Judge McCormick ordered that all property, money and papers be turned over to Brodix and enjoined creditors from interfering in any way with the receiver.

The Los Angeles Illustrated News, the defunct San Francisco Herald and Miami, Fla. Tab, comprise the principal holdings of Vanderbilt Newspapers, Inc.

Meredith P. Snyder, who was recently appointed receiver of the Illustrated News, said the appointment of Brodix would not interfere with his control of the local newspaper.

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The governmental attitude in Washington is very pessimistic as to the war debt outlook.

Nobody can see how the French situation can straighten itself out. State department officials have been looking for a dictatorship in France for some time. They look for it still.

But how will it help?

Even under a dictator, their war indebtedness will still hang over the French.

If a dictator undertakes to settle it, the conviction is growing that he, too, will be overthrown.

If he repudiates it, French credit will be ruined. French money will be worth nothing at all, and in that event also the doubtless will be overthrown.

But in favor of whom?

It looks as if present complications were due to remain complicated, and to get worse. There appears to be no hope, even on the horizon.

Nobody suggests an attempt at war debt collection by force, but neither does anybody in official circles suggest cancellation. The French debt simply is there, and there seems to be no way of getting rid of it.

Franco-American relations are bad now—not officially but actually—and every indication is that they will stay bad indefinitely. They will continue to be bad if the Paris government agrees to a debt settlement and their badness will be aggravated if a settlement is refused.

That they will be bad in the former case is proved by Anglo-American relations, the English being actually engaged in paying up, but to the accompaniment of a chorus of references to the United States as "Uncle Shylock," by leading British newspapers and public men.

On the other hand, if France repudiates her obligations she undoubtedly will hate America even more cordially than she does now, and Americans will not have a particularly kindly feeling for the French.

Public men in Washington are careful not to say anything very strong for publication but there is no question that resentment among them is increasing, with the mobbing of Americans in Paris and denunciations of the United States in the English parliament as "a mere mercenary."

No apprehension of an immediate explosion is expressed. What is regarded as almost inevitable is a long period of hard feeling between this country and the old world—unpleasant and always liable to develop into something dangerous.

Extending from Nantome to Nikko, two Japanese towns, 50 miles apart, there is a wonderful avenue of trees. They are perfectly straight, 130 to 150 feet high and 12 to 15 feet in circumference.

PHYSICIAN WITH EGYPT MISSION TO SPEAK HERE

Howard J. S. Buchanan, M. D., of the American mission, Egypt, will speak in the United Presbyterian church at 11 a. m. Sunday. Dr. Buchanan, with his wife and daughter, went to Egypt in 1921 and was connected as a physician with the American mission.

In 1924, Dr. Buchanan was loaned to the mission in the Egyptian Sudan, at Doleib Hill, in order that he might care for serious illnesses among the missionaries on the Sobat river. While he was engaged in this medical ministry in the Sudan, he contracted an infection of the eyes and was forced to return to Egypt for the removal of one eye. In June, 1925, he returned with his family to America in a vain effort to recover the sight of the other eye.

"While Dr. Buchanan has been hindered in the ministry of healing in far-away lands, he is doing all that he can to arouse others to the impelling motive which has been his passion all through his life in a message made all the stronger by the acute evidences of sacrifice in his own life," the Rev. W. H. McPeak, pastor of the Santa Ana church, said.

While in Santa Ana Dr. and Mrs. Buchanan will be entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Stukeby, 917 Cypress street. At the close of the service Sunday morning, they will be greeted by a large number of Monmouth college graduates residing in this region. Dr. and Mrs. Buchanan are graduates of that institution.

Burgomasters of Berlin In Fear Of Losing Jobs

BERLIN, July 28.—The 21 burgomasters who rule Berlin, a city of 4,000,000 souls, from 22 separate city halls at salaries of $6000 a year, are getting panicky. Lord Mayor Boese, who gets $8500, threatens to pluck most of these lucrative mayoralty plums from the municipal tree and turn about 15 of the $1,000,000 city halls into apartment houses to relieve the housing shortage.

The entire city, the lord mayor says, is over-stuffed. Salaries alone run up to $27,000,000 a year, or 18 per cent of the total expenditures. Each of the 21 boroughs of which Greater Berlin is composed, has its own government and sends representatives to the Greater Berlin parliament, of 109 members. Each member draws about half the salary of an American congressman. There are officials enough, the lord mayor believes, to run a city four times the size of New York, which has five boroughs.

Devotes Life to Aiding Illiterates

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 28.—To the wiping out of illiteracy, Miss Cora Wilson Stewart, of Frankfort, is devoting her life. She is chairman of the National Illiteracy Crusade, a nation-wide projection of the work of the moonlight schools of Kentucky, where mountaineers have learned to read and write.

Miss Stewart's first reader teaches adult illiterates to read the Bible and the newspapers in six weeks and to write letters to their friends.

The reader with its identifications looks like a book for the blind. The grown-up illiterates trace the letters of their own names first. With pride pushing them on from this point, their progress is rapid.

PREMIER WILL NOT URGE DEBT PACT APPROVAL

(By United Press)

PARIS, July 28.—Premier Poincare told the chamber of deputies finance committee today that he would not ask parliament to ratify the debt funding agreements, recently reached in Washington and London, before parliament begins its summer adjournment.

The premier said France would pay, however, according to her ability, and it was understood that debt negotiations would be reopened during the parliamentary recess.

Despite Poincare's strong position in the chamber of deputies, France's financial illness, the franc today was slumping on the bourse.

At midday, the franc had reached 201 to the pound sterling and 41.30 to the dollar, compared with yesterday's closing prices, 198.75 and 40.51.

The new government virtually is assured of the chamber's approval of its financial projects and there was every indication today that France, for the first time since the financial situation became acute, has a government that can remain in power for several months.

Poincare hopes that his financial projects can be discussed in the chamber of deputies Friday and that a vote can be had Saturday or Sunday, enabling the senate to pass the projects next week.

Soldiers Destroy Fields of Wheat

PEKING, July 28.—Impoverished farmers around Peking who saw their first hope of escape from famine when wheat sprouted in their fields this spring have been forced, despite anguished appeals and kowtows to the ground, to watch the horses of marauding soldiery trample and devour the grain, according to stories brought in.

SODA JERKERS REFUSE TO LET WOMEN FORGET THEIR CALORIES

Fudge Sundae Order Often Changed to 'Coke,' When Miss Overweight Thinks

SOMETIMES THEY FORGET TO DIET

One Fountain Proprietor Says He Can Tell Rum Lovers by Drink Choice

Shades of Hershey! Are we not to be allowed to forget the calories even when the mercury climbs heavenward? One ice cream dispenser is even so thoughtful as to remind some of his fair customers that certain dishes increase the pounds, when, in their weaker moments, they call for a fudge sundae with nuts! And Miss Averdupe murmurs faintly, "Make it a 'coke' then, Billy."

It is interesting to watch the crowds that visit the soda fountains on these hot afternoons. And crowds they are—sometimes standing two deep, waiting for a chance to say "double coke." The popular all-year-round drink is the coke, and especially in the summer its sale increased. More boys, girls, men and women call for the thirst-quencher than for any other drink. Malted milks and ice cream sodas are second in favor and sundae third with chocolate the favorite flavor.

Men buy the more expensive drinks, not because they are expensive, but because they like the milk, egg and flavoring. Women like them, too, but do not drink them. Why? Because they are trying to reduce. And summer is the ideal time to strive for the sliplike figure, with swimming, golf and various other sports helping. Miss Overweight loses those few disturbing pounds. Some of the women, who keep strictly to a reducing diet (at home), are unable to withstand the lure of the soda fountain when down town and even ask for drinks with no sweetening in them.

Saturday Big Day
Saturday seems to be the most prosperous day for the fountains and the most difficult to servers. The proprietor of one fountain was so sure that he had walked miles on Saturday, principally because of the many fountain patrons, that

Durkin Plea for New Trial Denied

CHICAGO, July 28.—Martin J. Durkin's appeal for a new trial was denied in Judge Harry B. Miller's court here late yesterday. Durkin was sentenced by a jury recently to serve 35 years in the penitentiary for the slaying of Edwin Shanahan, a federal operative, who was attempting to arrest him on charges of violating the Dyer act. Judge Miller, however, gave Durkin's attorneys 60 days to file a bill of exceptions and granted a 30-day stay of mittimus.

Motion Picture Star Fined Here On Speed Charge

Brook, who is one of the most prominent leading men of the Hollywood film colony, gave his address as 6378 Ivarlene avenue, Hollywood.

He was fined $20 by Morrison yesterday, the fine being paid by the Automobile Club of Southern California. Brook did not appear in court.

ART OWNED BY TUSTIN FAMILY ON EXHIBITION

Contributing in no small measure to the success of the George Wesley Bellows Memorial exhibition, now in the Los Angeles museum, Exposition park, Los Angeles, and made the subject of much favorable comment in the Southland's art circles, is a handsome collection of 14 choice canvases, loaned the gallery from the private collection of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Stevens, prominent society people and art connoisseurs of Tustin.

The Stevens home in Tustin is in itself an art gallery. Mrs. Stevens' objects d'art, collected from the various parts of the world, are as much art as the pictures on the walls. The shimmer of Venetian glass, the gorgeous figures of oriental designs, the well rubbed oak and walnut, and handsome lace and embroidery furnish a fitting atmosphere to the surroundings, adding to the effect of the pictures.

Included among the canvases selected from the Stevens collection to grace the Bellows Memorial exhibition, are the following:

- "Joan," by Murray Bewley; "Summer Clouds," Emil Carlsen; "Meadows and Sky," Bruce Crane; "Landscape," Elliot Dangerfield; "Rocky Coast," Paul Dougherty; "On the Balcony," Thomas Dewing; "Twilight in the Hills," Ben Foster; "The Church at Gloucester," Childe Hassam; "Evening on the River," George Inness; "Autumn Landscape," and "Wood Lot," Francis Murphy; "Clam Diggers," William Ritschel; "The Mill," Greenville Smith; "Autumn Evening," Dwight W. SOUTHLAND BUSINESS WILL BOOM SOON, SPEAKER TELLS SANTA ANA EXCHANGE CLUB

Business in Santa Ana and Southern California is due for a big boost within the next six months, in the opinion of O. S. Johnson, who recently came here from Hutchins, Kas., to open the Business Institute and Secretarial school, which he has located on North Sycamore street.

Johnson was the speaker yesterday, at the meeting of the Santa Ana Exchange club, with Ridley Smith as program chairman. Smith had asked the educator to tell why he located in Santa Ana. Johnson recited that he had spent more than a year in investigating different points, with a view to locating a business college, and that he had selected Santa Ana because of its superior climate, its many advantages and because it had every appearance of a substantial community.

"Santa Ana, like other communities, is in the trough of the business sea and is due to rise to the crest in the next few months," the speaker said, following a brief explanation of conditions in Southern California and developments that point the way to reawakening of business activity in every line.

He also considered that the man launching a business enterprise at the low ebb stood a better chance of success than the person who inaugurates a business during the high peak of activity.

"I have come to Santa Ana to build up an institution and I expect to see it grow and expand with the community," Johnson said, in commenting on the fact that he would give of his time and energy in co-operating with others in making the city one of the best and most active communities of its size in the Southland.

Pointing to the location of Henry Ford in Long Beach and the possibility of other big manufacturers following his lead, and stressing the point that manufacturing continues to develop in Los Angeles, Johnson said that Santa Ana and Orange county were certain to benefit by the overflow from Los Angeles harbor, an dfrom the tempests of the entire district.

According to Morris, chairman of the committee in charge, all plans have been completed for the club dinner and dancing party in Orange County park, Friday night. Baked ham and other good things to eat will be served at 6:30 by the committee.

Following a period of patient and watchful waiting, in the course of which there has been much writing to the power company and not a few visits to Los Angeles, the little farming community of El Toro will have electric lighting and power service.

A party of surveyors, employed by the Southern California Edison company, now is making a survey of the entire district.

El Toro is the only community in the county which, up to the present time, has been deprived of electricity, and therefore forced to depend on kerosene and crude oil for lighting and heat. It is expected to have the installation of power lines completed within the next 30 days.

Not only will electric contrivances replace kerosene lamps and oil stoves, but juice will be supplied to relieve the drudgery of ranch labor. When milk is to be separated, cream to be churned, silos to be filled, grinding machines operated, it all will be done by electricity.

HEARING WILL BE HELD NEXT MONTH ON NEW HARBOR REPORT

August 24 Is Date Set for Further Action on Port Proposal by Supervisors

THREE COURSES OF ACTION ARE OPEN

Statement from Gen. Lansing H. Beach, As to Cost Of Work Is Given Board

Following the filing of the new report of the Orange county harbor commission, yesterday afternoon, in keeping with the request of the board of supervisors to do so, the supervisors set August 24, at 2 o'clock, in the court house, as the time and place for the official hearing on the report. The motion to set the hearing for August 24 was made by Supervisor George Jeffrey and seconded by Supervisor William Schumacher. Previously, on the motion to ask the harbor commission to file its new report, Col. S. H. Finley, representing Santa Ana, had declined to vote and Willard Smith, representing the Orange district, had voted in the negative.

When the report is brought up at the hearing, the board will have three courses of action, acceptance, rejection or return to the board for revision. The hearing also can be adjourned for not more than four weeks after the original date set, according to an explanation made by District Attorney A. P. Nelson.

Welch Files Report

The filing of the report followed the filing of a petition containing the names of 290 Orange county representative citizens, who signed their willingness to serve on the executive board of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce in the interest of the new bond call for the purpose of opening up the entrance of the port. The report was filed by Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce, and George Rayner, secretary of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

Welch said no attempt was made to bring in a large petition, the effort rather being confined to securing the co-operation of prominent citizens of all communities, and especially those who had been opposed to the $1,200,000 issue which was defeated June 19.

Attached to the report was a letter from Gen. Lansing H. Beach, former chief of the U. S. army engineers, now retained in an advisory capacity by the Orange county harbor commission. General Beach's statement follows:

"Los Angeles, Calif., July 15, 1926.

"Orange County Harbor Commission, Santa Ana, Calif.

Gentlemen:

"At your request I am giving herewith a suggestion as to the cost of a program for entrance work only.

"Upon visiting Newport bay and looking over the entrance situation, I find material changes in the condition of the present jetty.

"In my report of April, 1925, I outlined estimates of the probable cost of opening up Newport bay. At that time, the jetty was given at about $40,000. Today much more rock work is necessary to bring the jetty up to its proper height. There are changes in sand conditions, but the volume to be moved is probably approximately

EL TORO TO HAVE ELECTRIC LIGHTS
Following a period of patient and watchful waiting, in the course of which there has been much writing to the power company and not a few visits to Los Angeles, the little farming community of El Toro will have electric lighting and power service.
A party of surveyors, employed by the Southern California Edison company, now is making a survey of the entire district.
El Toro is the only community in the county which, up to the present time, has been deprived of electricity, and therefore forced to depend on kerosene and crude oil for lighting and heat. It is expected to have the installation of power lines completed within the next 30 days.
Not only will electric contrivances replace kerosene lamps and oil stoves, but juice will be supplied to relieve the drudgery of ranch labor. When milk is to be separated, cream to be churned, silos to be filled, grinding machines operated, it all will be done by electricity.

DELEGATES BACK FROM ELKS MEET
W. R. Gordon, Santa Ana; Albert Rohrs, Orange, and T. B. Callen, Anaheim, have returned home from Chicago, where they attended the national convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, as representatives of the lodges in their respective cities. Walter Lowe, who also attended as a delegate from the Santa Ana lodge, went to Covington, Ky., to visit his mother before returning home. The convention was from July 12 to 18. According to Gordon, the annual meeting was a big success, both from the standpoint of attendance and the business transacted. The social features of the meet also were good.

BOARD SELECTS QUARTERS FOR PARENT SCHOOL

Official appreciation of the honor conferred upon Orange county by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, in selecting it as location for one of the four experimental schools of instruction for parents, was expressed last night in resolutions adopted by the Santa Ana board of education.

It was decided to offer the state superintendent the free use of necessary quarters in the Washington school building, North Main street.

City Superintendent J. A. Cranston informed the board members that he already has addressed a communication to the state office, asking for information regarding space requirements and other particulars.

The following new teachers were elected at last night's meeting: Rufus G. Bond, Santa Paula, mechanical drawing, high school, to take the place of George W. Duncan, appointed business manager; Miss Abbie L. Harvey, Los Angeles, assistant in music in junior and senior high schools; Mrs. Norma Newman, Los Angeles, social science; Frances E. Willard junior high school.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Heading the five act vaudeville bill at the West Coast-Walker theater are Bert and Bertie in an "Athletic Surprise"—a man and a woman doing head to head, pole, ladder and hand balancing routine in an artistic way. Their costumes are odd and lend comedy to their offering.

Balzer, Taylor and Perneau, a man and two girls, do a novelty dance number that has proven a hit everywhere they have played. Netty Perry's three dancing toils, known as "Dixie's favorite steppers," offer a surprise act that will amaze you with their cleverness. These toils do some of the classical dances much superior to the older and more experienced performers.

Dave Monahan in "The Fast Stepping Man and Maid" is an artist that entertains. He does some monologue work that is a riot.

Lewis and La Varre are a man and woman who will take your troubles away from you for the time being and will lead you into the land of entertainment with their clever talk.

YOST THEATER

From stock broker in Wall Street with millions at his command to a hobo with not even a razor at his command is the spectacular transition through which Walter Pidgeon has passed.

It might be explained here that he plays the part of a hobo opposite Anna Q. Nilsson in "Miss Nobody," which is now showing at the Yost theater here.

Pidgeon was actually once a stock broker until the strain of reading ticker ribbons began to affect his eyes.

WHY SO SUDDEN?

Santa Ana, California, July 27, 1926.

Editor Register:—I read in last night's paper that The De Luxe Printers of Santa Ana were denied permission to put out the fan ads for Mr. Mozley. Now we all know that there is a law against distributing circulars and advertising. However, I often see the local real estate agents and dyeing establishments going from house to house distributing cards.

And has anyone forgotten how the harbor bond boosters ran amuck all out on South Main and North Main with those big yellow lettered posters. We didn't hear so much as a peep, did we, about this?

It looks to me like someone was a little late in getting started and is "trying to crab" some one else's proposition. There have been several instances where a candidate has been "warned," but up to that time I never heard of such a thing. And I think this law is one great big mistake. What do you say?

WILLARD BOWMAN.

RAGAN EXPLAINS SLEEPER'S PRESENCE AT THE ORANGE HARBOR BONDS MEETING

Villa Park, July 27.

To the Voters of Orange County:

There is an injustice being done County Assessor James Sleeper in regard to a certain meeting which he attended at Orange, just before the harbor bond election. I was responsible for his being there, as I called on him and requested his presence, which he refused, stating that he did not wish to mix in the fight. I later called him on the phone and insisted that he attend the meeting, which he finally agreed to do, stating at the time that he would not argue for or against said bonds, but that he would explain the bonded indebtedness of the county as shown in the annual report of the county, as a county official, and not otherwise.

JOHN R. RAGAN.

OBJECTS TO SMOKING IN PUBLIC PLACES OF ASSEMBLY

To whom of the male population of this city, that this may concern, especially those attending public meetings, such as sessions of the city council and other like meetings: It would show a little courtesy to others (both men and women) if they would do their smoking outside.

Last night, July 26, I attended the council, on invitation of the health officer, to state some facts concerning some of the public nuisances here in our fair city. Now I am a property owner and taxpayer, and it seems to me that anyone should be able to attend these meetings without having to sit in a cloud of tobacco smoke. I and my lady friend stayed about an hour and the smoke became so dense that we had to leave; therefore the purpose I went for amounted to nothing. I have lived years enough to remember when women were shown a little courtesy in such things, but I am sorry to say that courtesy with many seems lacking these days.

Respectfully,
MRS. E. M. HAVEN.

Savings Deposits are the financial "back bone" of every community. When people save money it means that they are looking ahead—are not only preparing for the future, but also preparing a real character building habit.

Savings Deposits have a great deal to do with prosperity. In every community, an increase in Savings Deposits means that more money is available for first mortgage loans on real estate—either in city or country.

A growing Savings Account is good for you—and good for the community.

Population of 750,000 By 1930

"Everyone owes it to himself," said W. F. Baldwin, 208 South Second street, "to see what is taking place in what is known as the metropolitan industrial district." Mr. Baldwin is branch manager for the J. B. Bonom corporation, one of the sponsors of the Industrial Booster Caravan, which recently planted a "Colorado river industrial" tree in front of St. Ann's Inn.

"This industrial district, comprising what is known as the great East Side of Los Angeles and extending eastward toward Santa Ana, according to a recent statement by Mr. R. H. Ballard, executive vice president and general manager of the Southern California Edison company, by 1930 will have a population of 750,000. In fact, things are happening in that district so fast that it is difficult for one to keep abreast of events."

The Ransom corporation has expressed its appreciation for the co-operation of the people of Santa Ana in making the caravan a success.

Mr. Baldwin stated today that he would be glad personally to arrange for anyone in Santa Ana or vicinity to go on an educational tour of the metropolitan district terminating for free lunch and entertainment at Montebello Park, where the Caravan reached its climax with a grand pageant, frolic and ball.

Who "Owns" Union Oil?

The answer is, "10,200 people," of whom no one individual owns more than 2 per cent. Probably some of your friends are "owners."

Men, women, children, widows, orphans, employees, bankers, shop girls, doctors, lawyers, clerks, executives—perhaps some friends of yours—are numbered among the stockholders of Union Oil Company of California.

A community of people, not a group of capitalists—a representative American public, not a few rich men or one or two wealthy "estates"—are the "owners of Union Oil Company."

A number of so-called "small people" own as many as two shares—quoted on the market today at a price between $40.00 and $50.00—so their entire "holdings" amount to the grand total of less than $100. Small savings—but part ownership nevertheless, and "Union Oil" welcomes all to ownership no matter how small the holding.

But we believe we are proudest to number among the names of our stockholders those of our own employees.

The reason is, because they know us best. Because they are part of us. Know our intent, our ideals, our aims and aspirations. They know whether our standards are merely mottoes or are actually adhered to. They know us as a family group, know one another, without our company "managers" on.

And most of this stockholding by employees is investment ownership, with no thought of speculation. It is "rainy day" saving—capital account—a "stake" for independence.

It represents belief in the Company, confidence and trust in its permanence and future.

To us, this means deep obligation on our part—a trust that we must keep.

And in keeping it for those who work for us we keep it for all others—for ourselves who own our own stock, for our employees, and for you outside. Because you own the same stock as we do if you are on our stockholders' list.

So when you think of "Union Oil," think of it as human—as an institution owned and operated by an everyday type of home-loving human beings, not by the wealthy or by a few "big capitalists."

Union Oil Company of California is a Western Company, making no detouring Union Gasoline and Aristo Motor Oil mainly for consumption in the West, and largely to suit Western motoring conditions—an institution of which 76% is owned by Western people, and of which the West may well be proud. It is an institution whose main aim and greatest wish is to serve you to the best of its ability.

To Serve You

Union Oil Company of California

This is one of a series of announcements by the Union Oil Company which we believe will be of special interest to all Westerners. Others acquainting you with the development of the oil industry will appear from time to time. Look for them in this publication.

REFUSE TO LET WOMEN FORGET THEIR CALORIES

he bought a pedometer. The next Saturday found him with it securely strapped on his ankle, ticking off the miles! Ice cream... chewing gum... milk shake... cigar please... coke... something for sunburn... ice cream soda... salted malted milk... rush prescription if you please... orange juice... ONE MILE. At closing time that night, the hand on the little mile catchpointed to 1. When asked what became of the pedometer, Mr. Druggist said:

"S-s-s—no loud, I'll tell you a little secret. I had found out what I wanted to know and I threw it away so my wife couldn't get hold of it and wear it in the kitchen!"

Despite the fact that most persons have the idea that nine-tenths of the chewing gum is bought by stenographers, the boys are the guilty ones—those between the ages of five and 75 years. Perhaps the reason they cannot get the last word is because they are too busy with their gum.

One druggist said that he usually could tell whether a man liked alcoholic drinks by the soft drink he ordered. He invariably would call for a very sweet drink, or a sundae with fudge and marshmallow on it—then put several chocolate bars in his pocket as he left the store. Evidently the soft drink fountain is one bet the prohibition agents have overlooked in tracing the liquor drinker. By hiding at the end of the counter, the sleuth might wait until the unsuspecting customer had finished the fudge-marshmallow-soft sundae and stocked up with candy, then slip out and nab him.

Riches in Sodas

When the saloon went out, prosperity came in for the soda fountain. The life of ice cream and soda pop is dependent upon the absence of liquor. And as for the social benefits, who can deny the greatest pleasure of sitting with a pretty girl in a cool spot, eating something good, that of being with a bunch of roughnecks in a fly-infested, hot, smoky room, watching fat men guzzle beer and pretzels?

The druggists are not the only ones who profit from the hot weather by the sale of ice cream sodas. One busy doctor paused in the midst of his duties yesterday long enough to say that people must be crazy, the way they rush to the fountain in hot weather and spend from 30 minutes to an hour loafing and imbibing almost death-dealing drinks.

It isn't what you drink that hurts you as much as when you drink, he said. Most persons wait until they are "burning up" and then hurry for an ice drink, which is the worst thing anyone can do. On should wait until he has cooled off and then go to the soda fountain. Ice cream, soda pop, malted milk and drinks without coloring are not harmful in themselves, this physician believes, but those that have artificial coloring are deadly. So when you feel that you register 100 in the shade, do not rush for the drug store and drink a "double coke" as fast as you can, but wait until you are down to at least 75 degrees, then calmly stroll in and order a dish of ice cream, not chocolate, no nuts today. Eat slowly and do not spend half an hour just sitting talking to your right side neighbor. You will leave the drug store in a few minutes having eaten a lot of food, should, not in a hurry, not too hot.

Won't Mind Taste

If you have a cheerful disposition, you will not mind the fact that the ice cream tasted like weak custard or that you didn't have a good time. About an hour after offering this advice, this busy physician was seen in the drug store next door to his office, at the soda fountain, in one hand a double coke glass, almost empty, and in the other hand, a handkerchief, with which he busily was "mopping his fevered brow," while he talked to his right hand neighbor.

Two minutes later, the doctor was surprised to hear a familiar voice at his left say weakly, "double coke, please."

CAPTIVE BALLOON USED FOR TARGET

OAKLAND, July 28—A balloon full of holes is no more useful than a sieve without holes. In the opinion of D. H. Mitchell, Oakland automobile dealer, who has appealed to police to find the culprit or culprits who brought his captive gas bag to earth. It was a fine advertising medium, Mitchell averred, until mean boys or meaner competitors made it a bullseye for four rifle bullets.

MRS. BARBARA BROOKS IS UNSUCCESSFUL IN FIGHT TO REPEAL DOG ORDINANCE

The rabies situation in Orange county is so greatly improved, as the result of strict canine vaccination regulations, that within 30 days, if the same improvement takes place, the rigid vaccination ordinance recently adopted by the county board of supervisors will be repealed.

This was the information given Mrs. Barbara Brooks by Chairman Thomas Talbot of the county board yesterday afternoon when the second round of the day's "dog fight" in the supervisory chambers was called. The supervisors had adopted an amendment to the present anti-rabies measures to the effect that vaccination of dogs will not be required outside of incorporated cities, if the dog is kept tied up or confined.

Mrs. Brooks, the militant leader of the forces opposed to the ordinance, wanted the whole ordinance wiped off the slate at once, but the supervisors couldn't be argued into it.

She reiterated her previous claim that cats were as susceptible to rabies as dogs and tapped on a large red volume in which she said she could prove that cats were just as liable to go mad as canines. Mrs. Brooks claimed that the dogs in the rural sections are all healthy animals that they range over the fields and provide protection for the rancher in a number of ways.

This rally brought forth a response from Ralph McFadden, of Placentia, who declared that stray dogs had just about ruined his venture into the turkey and chicken business. Frank Purinton, mayor of Santa Ana, stated that the chief reason the city of Santa Ana had not enacted the ordinance was because of what the trustees considered an excessive price for vaccination, $2.50, which includes a county dog license.

Mrs. Brooks also took exception to a remark by Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer, to the effect that most of the agitation concerning the anti-vaccine ordinance had been propagandized. She told the supervisors that she got about very little but that she was fairly swamped with letters, telephone calls, and personal visits on the part of those who had dogs and were opposed to the vaccination regulations.

Mrs. Brooks wanted to explain several other reasons why the law should be wiped from the books and for all but she was halted by Chairman Talbot, who told her he considered that the board had been very patient in listening to her arguments, but that the entire day could not be given over to the hearing on the dogs.

But Mrs. Brooks wasn't defeated. "When can I have a copy of that amendment to the original ordinance?" she queried just before her departure. County Clerk J. M. Backs informed her it would be published as a legal notice today or tomorrow.

COUGAR REFUSES TO TASTE LIQUOR

SEATTLE, July 28 — Some of the boys must have liked it, but what a wild cat thought of the moonshine which Joe Gaynor and James Dolan were alleged to have been making was expressed in the words of Snohomish county, waiting for its operators, when two cougars approached and began sniffing the locality.

One good whiff of the stale mash was all one of the cats could stand.

"Wove-e-e," it sang out, and made for the brush. Its mate followed, not daring to be too inquisitive after such an ominous cry.

"No wonder it makes the boys wild," was the comment of Harvey Johnson, government agent.

Count Sued for Old Tailor Bill

VIENNA, July 28—Count Michael Karolyi ran up a tailor bill while remaining in London until the war broke out. The tailor has just brought suit in Budapest to recover 564 pounds. The count, through his lawyer, admits the bill, but refers the tailor to the Hungarian government, which has requested him to admit that claim should be paid from the count's former estate, and moreover orders him to pay the bill, along with five per cent interest and court costs. But the count is not in Hungary and claims as an ordinary worker he is just earning enough for his existence.

DUNCAN GIVEN CITY SCHOOLS BUSINESS JOB

Marking a new departure in the administration policy of the Santa Ana board of education was the appointment last night of George W. Duncan, head of the mechanical arts department, Santa Ana junior college and high school, as business manager of the school district at a salary of $3600.

His resignation as instructor was followed by his appointment to his new position. In addition to taking over some of the duties now performed by Miss Elizabeth E. Phillips, secretary of the board, Duncan can will have general charge of the business administration, giving particular attention to the care and preservation of property, repairs, alterations, improvements, and the like.

Pending further adjustments, he will continue to act as supervisor of manual training of the entire school district. He will enter on his new duties on August 15.

In addition to having general charge of business transactions, the new executive will act as advisor to the board in all matters relating to letting of contracts for construction, repairs and alterations, as well as for the purchase of supplies. He will work under the direct supervision of Alex. Brownridge, president of the board, and in conference with the members of the various standing committees.

CROQUET TEAM OF PAST IS RECALLED

club was disbanded," concluded Flook.

Following the disbanding of Santa Ana's champion team, interest in croquet dwindled and only in a few places was the game played, but recently, according to various dealers in sports goods, croquet is coming back. Even yet Santa Ana may regain some of the glory that was hers in the croquet world 30 years ago. Victor Walker says that where a few years ago croquet sets were sold only at Christmas time, he now sells them throughout the entire year. A few years ago only very cheap sets were sold and now occasionally fairly expensive sets are purchased, especially by the schools, which are installing courts for the children, Walker said.

T. J. Neal says that more sets are purchased, but not more expensive. "However," he added, "a number of persons ask to inspect expensive sets whether they buy or not."

O. J. Hawley also said that more croquet sets are being sold. It seems, he said, that more young persons are interested in the game than ever before.

Young Folk Differ

Various young folk, who have been prominent in high school sports, have their own opinions on the flare for croquet. One graduate declared that she would have to reach the height of boredom before she would attempt to play croquet. Her opinion was seconded by several athletes of the other sex.

One girl admitted that she was rather interested in the game. "I have not played it since I was very small, but I should if I had the chance," she said.

FOREIGN WORKERS MUST SHOW CARDS

PARIS, July 28—The chamber of deputies has passed the essential provisions of a bill making important changes in the conditions under which foreign imported labor on contract may be employed in France.

The bill makes it a legal offense for any person to employ a foreigner who has not an identity card marked "worker" and mentioning the contract under which he was brought in.

It also is forbidden to employ a foreigner in a trade other than that for which his identity card was issued except after the expiration of one year and then only on the production of a certificate from the state labor exchange taking account of the state employ a foreigner in a trade other consideration.

Employers are required to keep a register of foreign workmen and to enter within twenty-four hours the names of fresh workmen engaged.

The object of the bill is to give the government a means of protecting home labor from the competition of imported labor in the event of an economic crisis involving unemployment. Since the war it has been necessary to import a great deal of labor. A large proportion is brought in under contract for particular trades but it is notorious that workpeople frequently exchange their jobs for others.

Last year the carcasses of 800,000 bullocks and 1,215,000 sheep and lambs and 1,000,000 pigs were handled at the great Smithfield Markets in London.

In 1924, according to figures just made public, 1,218 persons were killed in the mines of Great Britain, and 197,111 disabled for more than three days.

RECRUITING IN ARMY IS MADE STUDY ON TRIP

NEW YORK, July 28 — Rowing through 34 states in the guise of a down-and-out, First Lt. Harry G. Dowdall, a "show-down" man for the U. S. army, went through all the processes of enlistment—save the ultimate one of being sworn in on 35 occasions.

This mission, which was undertaken some years ago to discover the attitude of the prospective soldier and to find out why these "show-down" men were being recruited, was revealed with the announcement of war department orders, assigning Lieutenant Dowdall as assistant to Col. James T. Dean, recruiting officer of the metropolitan district.

"Elopers" From Army

"The army occasionally has trouble with 'elopers,'" said Lieutenant Dowdall, "and to find out why these elopers would quit before being sworn in, the military authorities sent out 'show-down' men to discover what frightens the embryo recruit away."

"On my trip as a 'show-down' man I dressed in rough clothes, neglected to shave and adapted a lachrymose attitude. I found out that enlisted men working as recruiters would exaggerate the horrors of army life at times and the young civilian, perceiving this before the oath was administered, would take the last chance to get away before such a move would be desertion."

"Other times I discovered that vaccination scared the timid, and even homesickness kept others from going through with enlistment. Some 'show-down' fellows were afraid of the 'hard-boiled' attitude of some older army men."

The lieutenant said his disguise was never discovered, not even by one officer in San Francisco, who had met him in his officer's uniform.

"Although the word had gone abroad that a 'show-down' man was about the country, no one ever suspected me," said the lieutenant. "In this way I learned who were the recruiting officers with a good knowledge of human nature, and who were deficient at their jobs. One man, a very persuasive fellow in Columbus, O., had a chance to enlist me, but he lost it by talking to a nice looking girl for over an hour. He was surprised when he was reported for this."

"At no time did I find an officer who told an untruth, but some of the enlisted men did exaggerate in attempting to get youths to join the army."

Lieutenant Dowdall said he thought his tour would aid him in his new position.

Fire Protection In Forests Is Held Big Need

SEATTLE, July 28 — When the Pacific coast devises some system of adequate and thorough fire protection for its great forests, the perpetual reproduction of timber will be assured, according to Prof. Tor Jonson, of the University of Forestry in Stockholm, Sweden.

He is inspecting the forests of the west for the Swedish government.

"Your forests in the Pacific northwest reproduce themselves," he declared. "We can't get any such reproduction in Sweden."

The fire hazard in Sweden is not great, Johnson said, and there are not elaborate fire-fighting organizations there. It is a national duty. I have known of women running 20 miles to help the men. Our people realize their livelihood depends upon the forests."

CLAM CROP OF STATE HELD TO BE IN DANGER

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28 —

Clam digging on the beaches of California may soon become a lost art, in the opinion of William F. Harrington, assistant fisheries biologist of the state fish and game commission, who points out that the valuable Plismo clam fishery of San Luis Obispo county, once the leading clam beach of the state, is headed for extermination.

The clam class, year 1924, comprising those brought out in 1924, are only one-tenth as abundant as were the clams of 1919. As this 1924 class will not graduate into legal size for two or three years, and then will be relatively small in number, extermination is seen unless drastic action is taken to save the clams.

Activity of commercial dealers who can market only legal sized clams, is not blamed for the decrease by Harrington. Tourists and amateur diggers who take clams that have not reached the spawning age are responsible, he said.

Drastic regulations to protect the immature clams is urged by Harrington as a means of preventing further decreases in the clam crop.

FARM TOPICS

ORANGE COUNTY MELONS HIT BY STEM BLIGHT

Strange Diseases Discovered
In This Section for First
Time, Says Cory

By RAYMOND ELLIS,
Assistant Farm Advisor

Again there appears one of those mysterious plant diseases which defies all of the known and recommended control measures.

We have fought against such diseases for a long time, especially those of us who have worked with tomatoes. This time, however, the disease has appeared on watermelons and is known as gummy stem blight. This disease has been prevalent in other sections of the United States for some time, but this year has found it doing much damage in Orange county.

The disease is marked by the death of the vines from the centers outward. The root just below the ground, the branches and some of the leaves, show brown, irregular cankers, the former showing an exudation of gum in most cases. Under favorable weather conditions, high humidity and warm temperatures, the disease develops rapidly and in many cases, though not always, the entire vine is killed.

Sometimes, however, the fungus does not completely kill the plant, but seems only to affect the stems and foliage in the center of the vine. Poorly developed fruits often form on these partially killed vines. There seems to be another disease which has appeared in connection with the stem blight on the melons in Orange county. Sometimes cankers have appeared, which look very much like the early or Alternaria blight, which attacked the potatoes this spring. Whether this is true remains to be seen.

There are no control measures for stem blight which have yet been found successful. Bordeaux mixture has been used to good advantage in many cases, but only as a preventive and not as a cure.

It is almost impossible to cure the disease after it once gets a foothold, but sometimes healthy vines may be saved by spraying, especially the centers, with a 4-4-50 Bordeaux mixture.

SANTA ANA "BURBANK" GROWS 100 SACKS OF BEANS WHERE 10 PRODUCED BEFORE

No more aren't the beans Jack of Beanstalk fame planted. They are being grown by L. H. Hill, 910 West Chestnut street, in his experiments on a new method for cultivating field lima beans that will revolutionize the industry by training them on poles, he believes.

Control of Purple Scale

Written for the Register by Dr. J. G. Berneike of Garden Grove

Purple scale has been considered the most difficult to control and eradicate, and only a very limited time was assigned for successful work, particularly the months of August and September. Experiments with a new fumigant, cyanide dust or calcium cyanide, show it possible to control this scale easily at any time of the year. Prof. Quayle of the Riverside experiment station, in his address at Tustin and Fullerton lately, pronounced it the last word in fumigation.

Having been fortunate enough to observe experiments and commercial work in mine and neighboring orchards (near Garden Grove), citrus growers will be interested as I tell them of results accomplished.

Last November my fumigator asked permission to experiment in my orchard. He was most welcome to try anything that promised success. I pointed out trees that had been sprayed late in August and were alive with red and purple scale. A small lemon tree was literally covered with red scale and would die before long. An orange tree full of live red scale had the upper two-thirds entirely defoliated. The other trees were infested with red and purple scale.

On November 17, at 5 p. m., the men covered eight trees, and at 6 p. m. they tented eight more trees. These were very wet from a heavy dew. This was very unfavorable for gas fumigation. Naturally I watched the effect on these trees with a great deal of interest, and will state right here that there was no damage done to the foliage worth mentioning. After a few days the red scale on the lemon tree showed the edges loose, and a few more days convinced me that the scale was dead and drying up.

On November 23 Mr. Dozier, secretary of the Garden Grove Citrus association, called to inspect the work. When I told him that the scale was dead he naturally was cautious in sharing my confidence. "Wait 30 days," he said. Time proved my observation correct. Mr. Dozier had the men cover trees in his own orchard the next night. They had red and black scale; and about four weeks later he told me that the kill of red scale was 100 per cent, of black, 75 per cent.

In my judgment, there was a perfect kill of red and purple scale on my trees, some of black scale and some of mealy bug. The dosage used was 75 per cent on the lemon and some orange trees, 100 per cent on the others. The smaller dosage was as good as the larger. The orange tree which had lost most of its foliage after the spraying needed pruning.

PROBLEMS OF THE SOIL

Q. This year I planted watermelons in ground although not far from where I had melons a year ago. They were growing nicely until a few days ago when some of them suddenly began to wilt. Will you please give me your opinion? S. E.

A. The symptoms are very much like fusarium wilt, especially so as the sudden wilting coincides rather closely with the advent of hot weather. The wilt is a fungus, the threads of which grow up through the stems from the roots, plugging the water-conducting tubes. The plant actually dies from lack of water, even though there may be plenty in the soil. In cool weather the plants might not wilt noticeably, but when it gets hot they wilt quickly.

Undoubtedly some infection has been received from the old patch. Irrigation water flowing from it to the new ground, or water from the heavy April rains, for instance, would be sufficient to carry the spores or seed bodies of the disease and plant them in the new soil. When planting on new ground every care must be taken to avoid contamination from the infected field.

Q. What all my grapevines? Some of the leaves are spotted and streaked with red and yellow, and the new growth is very short. On others the canes are quite vigorous but the grapes are spotted with

Keeps Details of His Process Secret So He Can Have It Registered

Santa Ana's Luther Burbank Is L. H. Hill

The great plant wizard, Burbank, was credited with aiding in the man's progress by making it possible to grow two blades of grass where one grew before.

But L. H. Hill, 910 West Chestnut street, says that he has conceived a method whereby lima bean growers can produce 100 sacks to the acre where 10 or 12 are grown now. To prove it, he is experimenting on a small scale in his garden plot.

Hill's plan has attracted the attention of William C. Jerome, of Santa Ana, who is an extensive bean grower in Orange county.

The details of the method was not revealed by Hill but he said that the general principle is that of growing the beans on poles so that they may climb instead of creeping on the ground. Under the method of cultivation now being used, the greatest utility of the soil is not possible, Hill contends.

"For some time I have been thinking over the problem of growing beans more extensively," Hill said. "If I can devise a plan that will enable more beans to be grown on less ground, then I feel I have been a help to humanity."

As soon as the Santa Ana man can perfect his process, he intends to have it registered. That is why he is keeping the details secret.

Revolutionize Industry

If Hill's method proves a success, it will revolutionize the bean growing industry. Orange county is one of the greatest bean growing sections in the state. Approximately 213,375 sacks of lima beans were produced here last year on an acreage of 20,266 at an income of $2,192,815. That averages slightly over 10 sacks to the acre. This year the crop is expected to be even larger.

Now these 20,000 odd acres would become 10 times as productive in case Hill's plan is feasible. That would mean that the supply of lima beans could be greatly increased or much of the land now planted to lima beans could be used for other crops.

Believing in farming at present is Hill's hobby. He can't get away from it although it has dwindled from managing ranches in Texas to orchard farming in California and finally gardening in the back yard of his home in Santa Ana.

At the age of 71, he claims to be one of the youngest men in the county. The lima beans he is training in his garden grow at the rate of about three inches daily. Every other day or so, he builds another line for the bean runners. At present the beans have grown to a height of more than six feet and they may go as high as ten feet, Hill believes. Such growth as that will be possible for widespread agricultural farming through the new method, it is said.

soil is rather heavy, mostly adobe. —W. B. L.

A. If the soil is sour, lime is the corrective. Dig in a small amount around each tree. A simple test for sour soil may be made with blue litmus paper. Make a ball of moist earth, break it in two and lay a strip of litmus paper between the two halves, pressing them together. After a few minutes break apart and observe the paper. If it has turned red, the soil is more or less acid. If it has not changed materially in color the soil is probably alkaline and no lime is needed.

The trouble with your trees is much more apt to be too much water and lack of drainage, rather than sour soil. Unless well drained, water will stand around the roots and cause considerable trouble. Try opening up the soil by the use of sand, lime, and organic matter. Do not over-irrigate, and provide good drainage for the roots.

COOL MILK DOWN

A large part of loss from sour milk, high bacteria count and low quality butter and cheese might be avoided by promptly cooling the milk at the dairy barn. All milk should be cooled to 50 degrees, Fahrenheit, or lower and should be kept that cool until delivered at the receiving plant.

Consumption of Milk Reaches New High Mark

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Milk consumption in the United States last year reached the highest point in the nation's history. The quantity of milk, including cream, consumed in fluid form was 54,326,000,000 pounds, an increase of 1,554,000,000 pounds over 1924. Per capita consumption of milk and cream for the country as a whole was estimated at 120 pints a day. Milk consumption increased in most of the larger cities.

HONEY PRODUCT IS HELD PURE BY DEPARTMENT

In answer to charges made in Europe that American honey is often adulterated, that it is gathered by wild bees, and that it is often shipped in unsuitable containers, the United States department of agriculture today announced that American honey, as well as that of other American countries, has announced that such charges do not apply to honey produced in the United States and its territories and sold for export or home consumption.

Exports of honey from the United States for 1925 were 5,088,670 pounds, of which 2,497,527 pounds went to Germany and 1,761,797 pounds went to the United Kingdom. Beekeepers in the United States have charged that American honey is adulterated to American expectations of honey have been made to damage this export trade.

No Native Bees

The department points out that there are no native or wild bees in the United States. All honey on the market is produced exclusively by the brown and yellow bees—or a mixture of the two—in movable frame hives, set above the brood chambers, as common practice bans extracting any honey from the combs. It is, therefore, not adulterated by any dirt, brood, or other waste that might be present in pressed or "strained" honey. The honey is taken from the combs by means of a centrifugal extractor, and it is then put in large tanks, where it is settled or strained free from particles of wax or other foreign matter. At no time does it contain anything detrimental to human health.

From the clarifying tanks, the liquid honey is drawn directly into shipping containers. These containers are of tin or wood, and must be clean. Barrels are usually new, although sometimes alcohol barrels or other clean barrels that will convey no taint to the honey are used. All barrels are carefully inspected before being used, thus insuring against any contamination from the container.

Honey intended for export is not damaged by heating, the department declares, because the beekeeper warms the honey only to a temperature of 90 degrees Fahrenheit; this heating is done only to facilitate straining when the honey is exceptionally thick. On the approach of cold weather, honey may assume the solid or granulated form. It ships well when granulated, and there is therefore no incentive for any one to heat extracted honey in order to melt it for any other purpose.

Protected By Rules

Foreign and domestic purchasers of United States honey are protected by rules of commercial practice and by the United States grading rules for extracted honey, now in the process of being adopted, which specify: (1) That must weigh no less than 12 pounds per gallon of 231 cubic inches at a temperature of 60 degrees Fahrenheit; (2) that it be free from any recognizable disagreeable floral or other flavor of odor, and shall not be contaminated by any honeydew, dirt, smoke or other foreign material, nor may it at any time have been fermented or have had its flavor changed by over-heating; (3) that it shall be equivalent in cleanliness to a sample of honey passed through a standard silk bolting cloth of 35 meshes per inch at a temperature of not more than 140 degrees Fahrenheit; (4) that it shall be graded as to color by the Standard Honey Grader with grades varying from water-white to dark; (5) that it shall be plainly stamped and labeled, with the grade and net weight of honey contained in the package and, if the package is opaque, with the color; (6) opaque containers for extracted honey in cases, shall be new in appearance and shall be clean on the inside.

Since the enactment of the Federal Food and Drugs act of 1906, only 16 actions have been instituted against beekeepers, no cases having developed since 1920. The system of field surveys maintained by the department of agriculture is capable of detecting any general interstate traffic. Practically all states have good legislation comparable to the federal law and in most states this legislation is effectively enforced.

JUST WHAT IS BIGGEST NEED OF FARMERS?

President of American Farm
Bureau Federation Gives
His Ideas on Subject

By ROY J. GIBBONS
NEA Service Writer

CHICAGO, July 28.—The public realizes that the farmer is facing a crisis and wants relief.

But what is this crisis and what relief is wanted? Many have qualified to explain but few have been so well chosen for the task as Samuel H. Thompson, the authorized mouthpiece of the majority of the farmers in this country.

Thompson is president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, an organization with membership in 45 states and branches in 188 countries.

Thompson knows the farmer because he is a farmer.

Herewith he gives the readers of the Register through NEA Service, an interpretation of the agricultural dilemma.

"What the farmer really wants," says Thompson, "is legislation which will give him an equal opportunity to prosper under the American plan that is offered to other groups."

Others Get Federal Aid

"The farmer sees labor protected by immigration laws, by laws limiting hours of work and other artificial means.

"The farmer sees industry protected by tariffs and other means to maintain an artificial level of domestic prices.

"All these things the farmer sees and appreciates. He realizes that his own industry, the largest in America, with a capitalization of more than seventy billion dollars, is unprotected, meeting world competition with the result that those engaged in agricultural pursuits find themselves at severe disadvantage.

"Not only are those directly engaged in farming at a disadvantage but the farmer knows that the great numbers of other groups whose livelihood is dependent upon agriculture are also at a disadvantage.

"With this understanding the farmer proposes that governmental action be taken to provide an artificial means which will place agriculture on the same basis with labor, industry and all the other groups in the United States.

"Agriculture is disadvantaged but not discouraged at the failure of Congress to enact legislation providing this equality of opportunity. We realize that the adoption of a new agricultural policy cannot be done overnight.

Same as Labor and Industry

"The need of a sound policy for agriculture is now admitted by all. Such a policy demands a wholehearted, straight-forward provision which will enable agricultural producers to stabilize their industry so that they receive the benefit of the American protective system to a degree and on the same level that it has secured stability and independence for American labor and American industry.

"We do not think that the farmer's prosperity depends solely on governmental action. The radical who proclaims that is just as far from the mark as the farmer who claims that he can maintain his agriculture alone of all industries should not receive aid from the government.

"The farmer is not getting a fair share of the national income. Fixed charges of farming are inescapable and inelastic. Taxes, wages, interest and the cost of non-agricultural commodities make a total that is out of proportion to the price the farmer gets when he hauls his crop to market.

"The farmer cannot successfully overcome this tremendous obstacle unless the condition is frankly recognized and a remedy sought in a real agricultural policy for America which brings the farmer into fair relationship with the other groups.

The Farm Group Plan

"The bill which the farm group urged upon congress embodied in these principles and offered, we believe, the devices for affording agriculture the necessary protection and assistance to provide this equality which agriculture must have.

"The proposed legislation in brief provided for a farm advisory council and a Federal Farm board with authority to control and dispose of domestic surpluses of agricultural commodities through co-operative marketing associations and other agencies.

"This legislation provided that the government place a fund under the operation of this board. It also provided the means to collect this fund and return it to the U. S. treasury.

"In other words, the operation of the plan submitted by farmers to Congress would not have cost the government a cent. This was for the definite purpose of avoiding government subsidy.

"This plan of financing the disposal of surplus agricultural production provides an equalization fee which was to be charged back against the entire commodity. This equalization fee was to be used in disposing of the surplus farm markets at world prices, thus protecting the domestic market and domestic price."

GO EASY ON CORN

Don't overload the hogs with corn just because it's cheap this year, or the ration of these animals won't be properly balanced. Lack of protein results from too much corn. Legume pasture will help solve the difficulty.

Red Grange to Raise Sheep On Sonoma Ranch

SANTA ROSA, July 28.—Harold ("Red") Grange, former line plunger, extraordinary, of the University of Illinois, is to become a gentleman farmer in California.

Ira F. Pyle, brother of C. C. Pyle, manager of Grange in his professional football enterprises, announced here today that Grange had obtained a half interest in the 5000-acre Pyle ranch in the northern end of Sonoma county. Pyle understands that Grange is to use a portion of the ranch as a hunting and outing preserve and will run sheep on a much smaller portion.

The ranch is situated in the Cloverdale hills, one of the best spots along California's Redwood highway, a noted artery which traverses all of the north coast counties. Grange visited the ranch several months ago and became smitten with it. Ira Pyle, the owner, expressed willingness to talk business to Grange and the sale was completed within the past few days. The consideration was approximately $100,000.

USE CARE IN FEEDING COWS

Assistant Farm Advisor
Tells of Misconceptions
About Milk Production

By W. M. CORY,
Assistant Farm Advisor

Cows of ordinary capacity may easily be overfed, in which case they lay on fat instead of increasing their milk production. While cows of good dairy temperament, even when fed liberally, rarely lay on flesh when in full flow of milk, provided their ration is well balanced.

Recognizing this fact, many dairymen place a placard on the station in front of the cow which shows the pounds of milk and butterfat produced per day by each cow. This method may be employed where the cows are in the habit of going into the same station. If such is not the case, the feeder should thoroughly familiarize himself with the production of each individual that he may feed more intelligently.

GRAPE PRUNING IS SUBJECT OF NEW BULLETIN

It is not necessary to compute a balanced ration for each animal. All that is needed is to determine what amount and proportions of roughage and concentrates should be used to make the most economical ration that meets the requirements for the average cows in the herd.

With each cow receiving all of the roughage she will eat, which will usually be the equivalent of about two pounds daily per cow, live weight, of one pound of dry silage, the amount of concentrates for each cow may be determined by feeding one pound of concentrates per day for each three or four pounds of milk, depending on its richness.

Following this method, where the animals are not in the habit of going to the same stalls, an equal amount may be placed in the mangers in front of the stanchions. After the cows are locked in place, a second helping may be given to those individuals whose production justifies the additional amount.

FARM MECHANICS COURSE OUTLINED

Everything from construction of peat-harrow to installation of irrigation pumps is included in the program of farm mechanics given by the University of California and the state board of education to high school students of the state, through the U. S. department of agriculture.

In a report on the work Leonard J. Fletcher and James Koerber of the Division of agricultural engineering of the college of agriculture, said:

"The high individual efficiency of the American farmer, due to his extensive use of modern machine equipment, is invariably pointed out when world agriculture is discussed. Since studies made in California by C. D. Kinsman of the U. S. department of agriculture show that 100 horsepower of energy expended annually on each acre of improved land exceeds that in any other state, and is three times the average in the United States, would indicate the need and value of training in farm mechanics in our schools."

RURAL SCHOOLS ARE PRAISED BY PROF.

"Rural schools in California have evidently been developed on the theory that people in rural sections have as much right to a good education as those in the cities," says Dr. Raymond Asa Kent, dean of the college of liberal arts at Northwestern university, Illinois, who is at present a member of the education department of the University of California summer session.

Dr. Kent is a noted educator, having been affiliated with the education departments of Minnesota and Kansas; he has also been superintendent of schools in Kansas.

Comparing the rural schools of California with those he has studied, Dr. Kent observes: "The financial system under which schools operate is noteworthy. The schools are not dependent on the district entirely, which distributes the tax burden and makes for better schools, but also receive state aid. The development of the union high school system has made possible a very high type of secondary education in rural communities."

The state has a high standard for teachers, which contributes significantly to the success of its educational program, according to Dr. Kent, and the type of school building made possible through the state financing scheme is another factor in their success.

GRAIN IN ALASKA

The Yukon, Tanana and Matanuska valleys in Alaska have fully demonstrated their adaptability to grain growing and plans are being made to develop Sustana and Kuskokwim valleys for grain cultivation on a large scale.

Alfalfa seed from Africa or Chinese and Russian Turkestan must be stained red, or it won't be permitted to enter this country, according to an order of the secretary of agriculture. Italian clover seed also will be barred unless it is stained red. These seeds are declared unadapted for general agricultural uses in the United States.

"The Horse and Man" is the title of a new film produced by the U. S. department of agriculture, telling the history of the horse throughout the ages.

U. S. TO KEEP HANDS OFF IN MEXICAN FIGHT

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The U. S. government has decided upon a hands-off policy toward the Catholic-Mexican dispute, which it considers an internal Mexican affair.

Unless religious property owned by an American is confiscated in a discriminatory manner or in violation of Mexican law, this government considers it has no right to interfere.

In this connection, officials pointed out that the churches and their holdings in Mexico have been the property of the nation since 1857.

In cases of American ministers or priests expelled from Mexico for violating the law against alien religious ministers and teachers, this government intends to confine itself, as in the past, to diplomatic attempts to mitigate the harshness of executing the laws without challenging Mexico's right to pass and enforce such legislation.

According to official copies of the new regulations, against which Catholics are protesting, the decrees make effective religious limitations embodied in the Mexican constitution of 1917, which, in turn, followed the 1857 constitution.

These declare all churches and their holdings property of the nation; specify that practicing priests and ministers must be native Mexicans, who are prohibited from all political activities, including criticism of the government and its laws; prohibit monastic orders and primary schools under religious direction, and assert that churches shall be limited to the use of purposes of worship, and that no acts of public worship shall be allowed outside of the churches.

EXPANSION OF MILK BUSINESS IN STATE SEEN

Comparison on the consumption of dairy products in California, the United States and other parts of the world have been compiled by the bureau of dairy control of the California department of agriculture, the California Dairy council and others, which give an interesting outlook on the per capita consumption of dairy products and the possibility of expansion in this state.

The records of the department show that the annual consumption of whole milk in Sweden is 69.7 gallons per person, Denmark 68.5, Switzerland 67.4, the United States 42.4, England 22 and Italy 4.2. The amount of commercial milk distributed in California amounts to about twenty-two gallons per person and it is supposed that about half the population buy their milk supply, so that this figure should be doubled to compare with the figures by countries which are in each case estimates of all milk consumed.

In the use of butter, Canada heads the list with an annual consumption of 27.7 pounds per person, Australia 25.6, Denmark 19, the United States 17.5, England 17, Sweden 16.5 and Italy 2.5. California consumers purchased 21.7 pounds per person and about one home production is added by census figures.

Californians are also active purchasers of cheese. The records show that Switzerland consumes annually 26.4 pounds per person, Denmark 12.3, England 11.2, Germany 9.5, Italy 4.3, the United States 4.2 and Canada 3. California consumed 5.1-2 pounds of pressed cheese and an additional 2.1-2 pounds of cottage cheese per person, making a total of nine pounds.

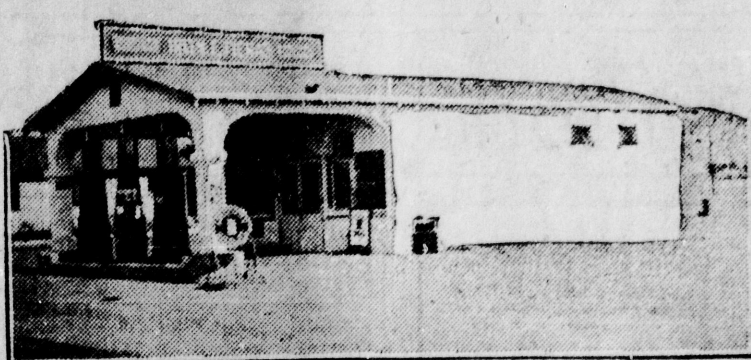

These figures indicate, according to Director G. H. Hecke of the California department of agriculture, that California is an excellent market for dairy products, but at the same time there is ample room for a greater consumption not only in California, but in the United States as a whole, "and this can be done," said Hecke, "without a material decrease in the consumption of other types of food, for milk, butter and cheese are served with and improve the palatability of other foods."

ASSOCIATED IS FOUND IN PUMPS OF NEW STATION

Steadily Growing Business Is Result of Gas Selection

Irwin F. Fickas, who recently opened a complete service station at Edinger and Van Ness streets, cast his lot with the Associated gasoline dealers after a careful survey of the independent stations here.

A growing business has been the result and repeat calls have been very remarkable. "We opened for business with new, modern equipment in our station," said Fickas, "and then we had to find a satisfactory gasoline to sell our patrons. Associated gasoline was finally decided upon, after we had carefully checked the results which other service station men had secured with this product."

"Before deciding, we talked to motorists and secured their view on the performance of Associated gas. Our business volume is the best proof that we made a good selection."

Hay Fever Society On Annual Outing

BERLIN, July 28.—The "Hay-fever association" of Germany is holding its annual gathering on the Isle of Borkum, one of the Friesian islands off the German coast in the North Sea. Some 400 victims are present for a stay of four to five weeks. The association was organized 28 years ago. All sufferers from hay fever are eligible to membership. Borkum is a favorite refuge for those afflicted by this seasonal unpleasantness.

Cigaret Holders Declining In Use

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Pipe smokers and those persons who prefer holders for their cigars and cigarettes apparently are thinning out. A census of establishments manufacturing pipes, cigar and cigarette holders, announced by the commerce department, showed that PRESIDENTS ARE NUMEROUS IN S. A.

Probably no one realized just how many presidents there are in Santa Ana until a series of vague statements on the subject of chief executives began to appear in The Register over the signature of Studebaker.

In the effort to penetrate the mystery clouding such promises as "Coming to Celebrate the 150th Anniversary of the Republic"—"The President" and "The Official Business of the President is to Serve Business Officials," a check-up of presidents in Santa Ana was made.

There were found bank presidents, presidents of trust companies, presidents of building and loan associations, presidents of industrial concerns, presidents of various business clubs, presidents of women's organizations, presidents of fraternal orders, presidents of the law and order leagues, presidents of religious societies, golf clubs, tennis associations and a host of other organizations.

In fact it is conservatively estimated that there probably are more than 400 full-fledged and duly elected presidents of one kind or another in Santa Ana.

Yet none of them could throw any light upon the mysterious president who is coming here.

Russian Mutilates Statue to Yankees

PARIS, July 28.—A Russian named Nicolas Serevenko was arrested here in the act of mutilating the statue to American volunteers in the French army, which is standing in the Place des Etats Unis. Serevenko was smashing the arms and legs of the statue when seized.

their output in 1925 decreased 24.9 per cent, compared with 1923, the total last year being valued at $7,284,463.

DOG BREEDERS FORM COUNTY KENNEL CLUB

Breeders of aristocrats of the canine world recently held an enthusiastic meeting in the farm bureau office. A temporary organization was perfected with the election of Harold Pickering, chairman, and Mrs. C. W. Hyde, secretary-treasurer. Both live in Santa Ana.

The name suggested for the organization was "The Orange County Kennel club," as its membership is county-wide.

Z. B. West Jr. was named on a committee with Dr. R. A. Cushman to investigate constitutions and by-laws of other like organizations and to report back at the next meeting, when a permanent organization is expected to be perfected.

Exhibiting at the county fair was discussed and, from the interest shown, a creditable exhibit will be made. It was thought that with the nearness of the opening date of the fair, time would not permit holding a licensed show this year, but at next year's fair a show, licensed by the American Kennel club, may be held.

Many of the breeders here never have exhibited before and that they may gain experience in fitting and showing, regular meetings will be held prior to the fair, the next of which is set for August 3, at 7:30 p. m., in the farm bureau office in the Hall of Records. All interested are invited to be present.

Charley Paddock says a champion must have all three start-stride-finish

These same essentials in perfect co-ordination—quick start, the full stride of power, and force sustained to the very end [finish]—are necessary to good gasoline. Associated through its distinctive range of boiling points insures this kind of a performance: no sputter when you step on the starter, no miss when you give her the gas, and always a smooth supply of adequate power from start to finish. That's why Associated is Champion. Associated is always associated with "more miles to the gallon."

BILLY EVANS
Hornby on Carey
In this connection I recall what Rogers Hornby said to me in the south last spring.
I had dropped off at Waco, Tex., to watch the St. Louis Cardinals take on the Texas League team of that city. Prior to the game I discussed National league affairs with Hornby.
At that time, Max Carey, star outfielder of the Pirates, was seriously ill in a St. Louis hospital. His illness had delayed his joining the Pittsburgh team at its spring training quarters.
Which is the best team in the National league? I asked Hornby. "Well," said Rogers, "I figure there are two teams my club must beat if it is going to win the National league pennant, Pittsburgh and New York.
"I fear New York even more than Pittsburgh provided the Pirates are without the services of Max Carey any great length of time during the season.
"While his true worth isn't appreciated, Carey is the inspiration of the Pittsburgh club. No team can lose so great a player without being seriously handicapped."

Sparkplug of Team
With the season a little better than half over, the Pittsburgh team has fallen below expectations. While still among the leaders, in a good position to start a pennant drive, the Pirates have failed to make a runaway race as predicted by many of the experts.
True, Pittsburgh has had more than its share of bad luck. A number of the regulars have been out because of injuries and illness, and the pitching staff in a measure has disappointed.
Along these lines I was much interested the other day in reading Manager McKechnie's version. Here is an excerpt from it:
"The loss of Carey has been a severe blow. His work in all departments of play has been greatly missed. In a sense he was the sparkplug of the club.
"Only the manager of a big league club who loses a player as brilliant as Carey, knows what his absence from the lineup means."
All of which brings out the truth of Rogers Hornby's spring estimate of Carey's value to the Pirates.

HELEN WILLS MAKES FIRST START IN TOURNAMENT PLAY SINCE OPERATION AT PARIS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
EAST HAMPTON, N. Y., July 28.—Less than eight weeks ago, Helen Wills, the American national tennis champion, was in the American hospital in Paris recovering from an operation for appendicitis. Dr. Thierry DeMartell, a celebrated athlete in his college days, and the foremost surgeon in Europe, told her after he had finished the operation:

"You are the finest physical specimen of young womanhood I ever have seen. Within ten days you will be out of bed and within a few weeks you can play tennis."

Her mother, the wife of a California surgeon, doubted it. Miss Mary K. Browne, captain of the American team, of which the young champion was a member, urged against it, and the American correspondents in Paris suggested that it was well to encourage her but that she should not be talked to too optimistically.

"I don't believe in coddling patients," Dr. DeMartell said. "This was only a minor operation and the subject was so perfect that it was simple. I believe in getting my patients out of bed as soon as possible. She is an unusual specimen."

Today found Helen Wills here to compete in the invitation tournament at the Maidstone club, a tournament which she said a few days ago, "would give me some real competition to determine if I am completely recovered."

These entrants, teammates of hers in France and England, naturally would feel like playing easily against her, but the young Californian said:

"I want them to play hard against me. Otherwise I will not know if I am physically able to play at Forest Hills."

The present season has been a great revival in the popularity of croquet in England.

SHORT SPORTS

DETROIT, Mich.—Wilbur Cooper, southpaw pitcher, has been released unconditionally by the Detroit Tigers. He failed to win a single game while with the Tigers.

NEW YORK—"Red" Chapman, whose featherweight elimination bout with Babe Herman was cancelled when Herman developed tonsillitis, lost his standing as a title contender. The State Athletic commission ruled. He refused to accept a postponement of the bout and claimed Herman's forfeit. He was ordered held by the commission. Chapman was stricken out as a challenger.

NEW YORK—Miss Agnes Geraghty, holder of many world records in the water, chalked up another record at Long Beach, L. I., last night when she shattered the mark for the 220-yard breast stroke. Conceding 1:15 and 22 seconds to her club mates, she won the event by several yards in 3:16 1-5.

NEW YORK—Dwight Davis, secretary of war and chairman of the Christ Mathewson Memorial foundation, announced yesterday that August 28, Saturday, has been set aside throughout the country as Matty day. Every major league team is expected to devote its game to the fund.

JIMMY DUFFY EASILY BEATS PAUL DE HATE

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Opportunity knocked for Paul De Hate last night, but the "pride of Compton" apparently suffered from defective hearing, and as a result Oakland Jimmy Duffy gave him a ten-round lesson in boxing and took a decision greatly coveted by De Hate.

The Oakland welterweight champion and De Hate met at Vernon last night and it was to have been the Compton boy's big chance. His crushing right hand was to have been De Hate's ace in the hole.

Twice during the struggle De Hate landed on Duffy's chin and with these two exceptions he failed to land with great regularity. In the third round, in the eighth round De Hate's punches had Duffy groggy. But his inexperience came forward at both these critical moments and he allowed Duffy to recover.

Aside from that Duffy's victory was decisive. He cut the local scrapper's mouth early in the fight and kept it bleeding all the time. He danced in and out shooting dizzy punches at De Hate with machine gun rapidity and some critics only gave De Hate two of the ten rounds, giving eight to Duffy.

RICKARD MUST GET LICENSES FOR BIG BOUT

NEW YORK, July 28.—Winning a fight of more than two years to get a decision against the New York Boxing commission, "Tex" Rickard returned to New York today.

He left one fight in Chicago only to jump into another battle that must be won before he can stage a bout between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney in the Yankee stadium September 16.

The boxing commission voted its approval for a Dempsey-Tunney fight but Rickard's fight is not yet won. He yet has to use his ammunition against Colonel John J. Phelan, commander of the celebrated "Irish 69th Regiment," and James A. Farley, political leader from Rockland county and the personal friend of Governor Al Smith.

Col. Phelan is the chairman of the license committee and Farley, on this issue, is the minority member of the boxing commission.

The commission itself cannot issue or grant licenses to promoters, boxers, managers or seconds. It cannot declare boxers ineligible and it cannot reinstate boxers who have been declared ineligible by the license commission.

The boxing commission voted yesterday that Dempsey and Tunney could fight in the Yankee stadium September 16.

But Dempsey hasn't a license and Tunney can't get one. To get the licenses, without which they cannot enter the gates of any boxing arena in New York state, they will have to plead their case before Col. Phelan's committee.

Phelan has gone to camp with his "fighting 69th" and he will not be back for two weeks. Meanwhile no licenses of any kind can be granted.

CHICAGO DIDN'T WANT BIG BOUT, ANYWAY, CLAIM

CHICAGO, July 28.—Chicago did not want the Dempsey-Tunney fight, anyhow, or a Dempsey-Tunney fight, or any other heavyweight championship bout, the Chicago Boxing commission ruled following the departure of "Tex" Rickard, Eastern promoter, for New York after receiving word that the New York commission had reversed itself and sanctioned a Dempsey-Tunney bout there.

The Chicago Boxing commission said so through its spokesman, Chairman W. O. Huncke, who said that Rickard had seen nearly everyone save the boxing commission during his Chicago bickering. Had Rickard called he would have been informed that Chicago is not ready, so soon after the revival of boxing, to handle a contest involving such a tremendous amount of money.

POE'S STORIES: The Murders in the Rue Morgue (4)

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

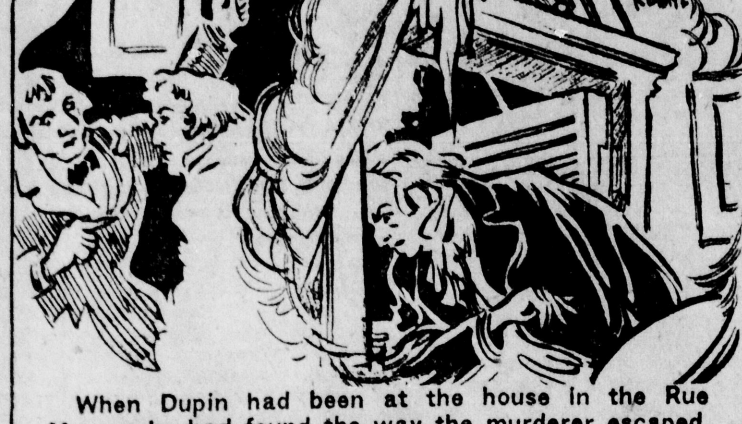

While Dupin and his friend were awaiting the arrival of the person whom Dupin had said would prove to have had a hand in the murders, the young analyst disclosed the remarkable yet simple processes by which he had arrived at his solution of the murder. He began discussing the voices neighbors had heard as they dashed upstairs.

Dupin explained that people of several nationalities had heard the one gruff voice and each had believed it that of a "foreigner." None could make out any words.

Then he told of finding a tuft of hair clenched in the hand of Mlle. L'Espanaye. It seemed to be the hair of an animal!

When Dupin had been at the house in the Rue Morgue he had found the way the murderer escaped. Both windows seemed nailed from the inside, but Dupin had found that the head of one nail had broken off in being driven in, which allowed the sash to move up and down. Dupin then told of finding a trellis work outside that window.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

PARIS, France, July 28.—Green almonds are to the French table what olives and pickles are to ours.

Butter is served ordinarily only upon request.

Water is also a request item and no essential.

If you insist on American prohibition in your dining, you pay for your wine or beer or cordial double because of omission.

Forks and spoons and knives are giant size, the fork resembles our garden picks, and the knife might be mistaken for a saw. Tea spoons are the size of our table spoons.

Table napkins are the size of young table cloths, and a spotless table cloth for each new table of diners does not seem the essential here that it does at home.

If you find these copious references to food a bit gross, reflect upon the saying of the sage who said that "to know a nation's stomach is to know a nation's heart."

If he didn't say it exactly like that, he meant it, and I am rather fond of coining my own epigrams.

Eating in France begins on the Cherbourg-to-Paris dinner. A cackling waitress pushes us into chairs and cackles some more, all of which means nothing to us. She is probably again calling us "gauche" or "pige" of an American.

Upon our erstwhile snowy cloth repose a plate of four sardines, butter cut into rosebuds upon fresh oak leaves, a basket of cherries, mushy bananas, and what we learn are the green almonds found on every dining table in France.

We learn what they are, as do our fellows, by the bitter experience of biting them as though they were peaches. The French waitresses laugh jovially to see us.

Dining car service resembles a procession in the harem. The cackling waitresses line up, the male chief steward at their head. He passes down the aisle, nodding with his head at this plate and that which is to be served.

Handmaiden one dumps down the plates, huge Goliath ones. Handmaiden two hurls a spoonful of potato and cauliflower salad upon the plate. Handmaiden three hurls a hunk of cold ham or meat loaf. Handmaiden four slings a pimiento on the heap, and handmaiden five hurls a tomato.

We are timed one minute, 50 centimes, for the hors d'oeuvre. Promptly, the male cock-o-the-roost signals his handmaidens and they swoop down upon our table. One takes the top plate and puts a new one in its place, one steps with a huge panner of bread, a third heaps the topmost plate with caviar, the best caviar I ever ate, juicy and packed full of spicy herbs.

We are timed again. Then monsieur the chandelier walks down the aisle, asking "more, more?"

We Americans are a bit dazed at this spectacle of being asked if we would have more on a dinner. Many accept. Then Chanticleer summons his cackling handmaiden and she dumps it on.

More plates—the fourth so far. This time the phalanx of five maidens lines up, one leaves a chicken leg, the third some peas, spoonful of gravy, the third some potatoes.

Timed. And again the chief cock o' the walk goes down the aisle with the second helping.

Ice cream, a watery kind, with cake, and cheese complete the feast.

The bill? Twenty-five francs, which, being interpreted, meant that day a trifle over 71 cents each.

One has no doubt about the tip. Chanticleer hovers over one and breathes passionately. "The service was she not divine? Was she not superb? Should she not have even more than ten per cent tip? Five francs, she is nothing at all to you. You make it ten."

In some parts of France the country people, upon the approach of a thunderstorm, adorn their hats with sprays of hawthorn leaves, they bear a charm against the harmful effects of the lightning.

An exceptionally good Canadian seal catch—the best for sixteen years—is attributed to the co-operation of fishermen who, from their machines, indicated to the fishermen where the animals congregated in largest numbers.

Sadler's Wells, which is to be reconstructed, is the oldest playhouse in London.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

THE LIGHT OF HOME
Much I've done and much I've seen
To many places I have been.
But to me there's no delight
Like the lights of home at night.
Porch globe twinkling from afar,
Window lights which softer are,
Shining through the inky gloom
From a peaceful happy room.

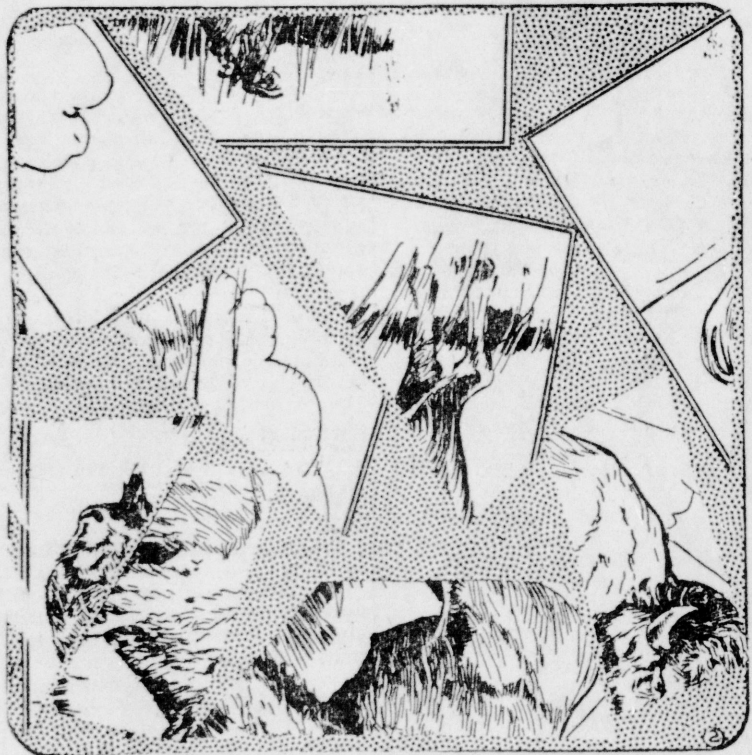

I've seen lights on ships at sea,
Lights that flash incessantly,
Beacon lamps, and those that shine
In some merchant's costly sign.
But my pulses faster beat
As I turn a little street
And I see the lights of home
Twinkling at me through the gloom.

Hurry in and sit you down,
And forget the noisy town.
Shut the door and put away
All the burdens of the day.
Come, let them stroke your cheek,
Let them laugh to hear you speak,
Here all selfish bickerings cease,
Here are love and rest and peace.

Menus for the Family

BREAKFAST: Blackberries, cereal, thin cream, soft cooked eggs, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Jellyed veal loaf, brown bread and butter sandwiches, peach salad, milk, tea.

DINNER: Broiled sirloin steak, mashed potatoes, fried summer squash, lettuce and tomato salad, whole wheat bread, watermelon cones, mock angel cake, milk, coffee.

Children under ten years of age will not eat the squash suggested in the dinner menu, but they will find enough variety in the rest of the meal to satisfy them.

Peach salad is an unusually delicious fruit salad that can be used in place of a dessert.

Peach Salad

Four fresh peaches, 1-2 cup white grapes, 1-2 cup fresh strawberries, 2 tablespoons blanched and shredded almonds, 1 package Neufchatel cheese, 2 tablespoons cream, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 4 table-spoons current jelly, 1-2 cup whipping cream.

Chill peaches but do not peel until ready to use. Cut grapes in halves and remove seeds. Hull berries and cut in quarters. Mash cheese, working in cream and lemon juice. Season with salt and pepper and beat in jelly. Chill while whipping cream and peeling the peaches. Cut each in quarters, cutting deep enough to remove the stone but not separating the quarters. Place each peach cup in a cup of crisp washed and thoroughly dried lettuce. Combine berries, grapes, almonds, cheese mixture and whipped cream. Fill peaches with this mixture and serve.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION
There are several short cuts to a clear complexion. For instance, if you are suffering from a "starvation diet"—to quote a reader's description—which will clear up pimples and muddiness in a very short time—over night if it isn't a bad case, in a few days if it is.

It consists of this ration: Breakfast, a slice of dry toast and black coffee or coffee with hot milk (not cream), which was preceded by one or two glasses of hot water with a little salt in it.

At least half an hour should elapse between the water and the breakfast. Luncheon is dry toast—oh, it can be buttered, I mean only that it must be dry and crisp, not thick and soggy with hot butter, for that makes it indigestible—and a large salad of any kind of fruit you want, or mixture of fruits, two lettuce leaves and as much mayonnaise as you like. Weak tea or coffee. Dinner is clear consommé, and a large salad of vegetables—any but potatoes—with the same sort of thick mayonnaise dressing, and toast. This dressing should be made with olive oil.

You get quite enough nourishment to work on during the day; if you feel hungry you can always drink water, you know. The food you take helps clear the system, the water flushes out the stomach, and the kidneys, which often causes a muddy complexion. Try this for a few days, and see what it does for your skin. If you have been suffering from constipation, this diet should relieve it. A mild laxative might be taken then as well.

If your skin isn't quite as good as

EVENING SALUTATION

Oh love of truth, bright as a young knight's sword,
Oh light of beauty, shining still more clearly
Cupped tenderly in old transparent fingers—
You are the lessons that I have by heart.
—Marie Emilie Gilchrist.

THE HIGHWAY COMMISSION WILL CO-OPERATE

It is indeed gratifying to note the enthusiastic interest manifested by the citizens of Laguna Beach in the suggestion of The Register that the cuts and fills on the state highway through this beautiful section of the Orange county coast be beautified by the planting of vines and climbing shrubs. And it is also gratifying and encouraging to learn that any effort at such beautification by Laguna Beach people or those of any other section or town will meet with the hearty approval and full co-operation of the State Highway Commission.

The Register was assured of such approval and co-operation on the part of the Highway Commission by Commissioner N. T. Edwards of Orange and Division Engineer Cortelyou, who called at The Register office yesterday to give such assurance.

"It is an entirely erroneous impression," said Mr. Edwards, "that the highway commission has any rule or regulation against such planting. Of course," he continued, "careful discretion and good judgment will have to be used in such plantings, and they will have to be made under the direction of the State Highway Commission wherever blasting is necessary; but where blasting is not necessary, vines and shrubs may be planted either at the top or at the bottom of fills or cuts without let or hindrance on the part of the Highway Commission."

Mr. Cortelyou suggested that those interested in this kind of highway beautification would find it well worth their while to drive to Santa Monica and thence north or west on the state highway and see how such work is being handled there. He said some of the finest ornamentation in the way of rock work and plantings he has seen anywhere in the state is being done in that vicinity.

THE STAGGER CENSUS

New York is busy with what it calls a "stagger census," but the phrase should not be interpreted as signifying an effort to enumerate the inebriates of the metropolis. It is the purpose of the count rather than the characteristics of the counted that provides the interesting name.

The "stagger census" is undertaken in the hope that, once data is available upon the working hours of the 1,500,000 men and women employed in Manhattan, it may be possible to "stagger" these hours as to simplify the ever more transit problem.

Surface lines and subways have their traffic peaks during the morning and evening rush hours and must provide equipment against it even as corporations which supply telephone, gas or electric service must be prepared for multiplied demand upon their facilities during certain periods every day. Obviously, could working hours for any city be "staggered" to spread out these peak loads over longer periods in the morning and afternoon, it might make possible important economies in rolling stock, current, and general operating expense. At first glance the idea seems altogether logical and feasible, but New York should not be too optimistic.

It is true that hours of work show a tendency to grow shorter but their accustomed place in the 24 has not varied. Men and women expect to devote certain periods to the earning of their livings, and they naturally prefer to work while other people work. It is to be questioned if employers, however interested in a city's transit problem, will care to disagree with their employees in the effort to effect a solution for this problem which every city faces.

NO CANCELLATION

Secretary Mellon's letter in defense of the government's position in regard to debt cancellation will go far to clarify the situation both in this country and abroad. He argues against cancellation on broad grounds, and although the same statement might, perhaps, have served a more useful purpose had it been issued months or even years ago, it is still timely.

The Secretary points out that the European countries which have obligated themselves to make payments on these loans have been asked for much less interest than the United States is paying on the same money to its own citizens; that the voluminous Wilson correspondence which preceded the advance of money makes plain that these loans were not regarded as gifts or designed as such; that much of the money was paid over after the signing of the armistice and was borrowed to meet domestic rather than military needs.

There must, of course, always be those who for sentimental or other reasons will hold that cancellation would have been not only the graceful but also the proper policy, but the time for considering such action is passed, now. Further agitation to this end can only serve to postpone some kind of settlement and in view of the political crisis in France, and conditions in half a dozen other countries, a settlement of the terms of repayment is really more important than the terms themselves.

A DICTATOR THAT'S DIFFERENT

King Albert of Belgium, recently made responsible for saving the Belgian financial situation, is a dictator with a difference. He derives his authority from parliament itself and not from any group attacking the parliament's powers. He will work with the aid of parliament toward a specific end, to meet a national emergency.

There is another novel feature of this dictatorship, aside from the fact that it is established by the government. This is the fact of the dictator's kingship. Mostly European kings are finding themselves relegated to minor roles in government. Dictators may kindly consent to let the kings continue wearing some of the insignia of royalty, but they don't let the kings have much say about anything of any importance.

With King Albert, it was different. He has long been regarded as the true leader of his people in the best sense of kingship. It was confidence in his loyalty to the Belgians as well as his outstanding ability that made the Belgian parliament place this great authority in him.

Other kings in other places could learn much from Albert of Belgium.

Over $158,000,000 was expended in the support of state universities and colleges in the United States during the year ending June 30, 1925. And nothing bought during the twelvemonth was cheaper at the price.

Make It Just, But Make It Stern

San Francisco Chronicle

The third degree is generally supposed to be a police method of the past, but the national crime commission, sitting in New York seems to have found otherwise. It is worth noting that the commission has gone into this phase of the matter and seems quite as eager to protect the rights of arrested persons and keep enforcement within the strict boundaries of the law as it is to stop the loopholes of legal trickery by which so many criminals escape from the net.

The commission has recommended some drastic changes, not so much in the laws as in the procedure in criminal courts. It urges that all persons arrested be immediately arraigned before a magistrate—before being questioned by the police or other persons—and be informed by the magistrate of the legal rights of a prisoner.

The constitutional rights of the prisoner having been protected, the commission believes the courts will be in a position to deal rigorously with the case in hand. It desires strict curbing of the operations of professional bondsmen, restraining them to what common sense dictates as their proper function.

To accomplish this the commission urges drastic reform in the operations of professional bondsmen, restraining them to the common sense function of relieving persons of good reputation who unexpectedly find themselves in trouble, rather than permitting them to be the regular resort of professional criminals. The power of prosecutors to quash prosecutions is another factor under attack by the investigators, who will submit their findings to judges generally in an effort to obtain revision, which will give judicial procedure a degree of uniformity now lacking.

None of the reforms suggested are in the nature of experiments. Each proposal is in operation in one or more states, so that its effect can be weighed before being generally adopted. The end sought is not savage severity against criminals, but orderly and swift determination of facts and stern imposition of penalties for misdeeds. Something along this line is needed desperately to stamp out professional crime. The casual offender and the relatively rare professional and lesser problem. Perhaps, if the proposal is as discouraged, our agencies of sociology and criminology will have time to establish a really humanitarian method of dealing with this angle.

Uniformity in Traffic Rules

Pasadena Star-News

Uniformity in traffic rules and regulations throughout the state is sought—including regulation of speeding and parking—in a traffic conference at San Francisco, to which more than forty counties have sent delegates. Represented in the conference are boards of supervisors, municipal officials and traffic officers of leading communities of the state. The flaws in traffic regulation, most commonly complained of, are before this conference for consideration and for recommendations as to corrective measures. The complaints come from California motorists as well as from drivers of automobiles coming from other states.

Various counties, cities and towns of California have traffic rules and regulations which differ widely. This causes great confusion, inconvenience and embarrassment for drivers. Sometimes life is endangered, because drivers are not conversant with the differing requirements of different localities.

There is no valid reason why traffic should not be under the same rules in all parts of the state. That is to say, in every large city in the state, speed and parking regulations should be the same. And in smaller cities there should be uniformity in these things, although slightly varying, perhaps, from the large city rules—especially as to time of parking. And as to the highways, the rules and regulations should be uniform throughout the state.

California owes it to its hundreds of thousands of motorists to clear up this situation, simplify and unify its traffic requirements and give every motorist a fair chance to drive in comfort and with intelligent, unconfused understanding of what the rules and regulations in each locality require.

GOOD NATURE AND GOOD HEALTH

The bodily reactions to emotion are dependent upon the product of glands which secrete a product known as adrenalin.

A number of investigators have shown that the secretion by the adrenal glands is increased in great emotion; that pain, fear and rage excite the glands in question and they pour into the blood stream an increased amount of adrenalin.

It calls forth stored carbohydrate from the liver and floods the blood with sugar which can be used for quick energy; it helps in distributing the blood to the heart, lung, central nervous system, and limbs, while taking it away from the organs of digestion and it quickly abolishes the effect of muscular fatigue.

It makes the blood more rapidly coagulable; in short, it prepares for fight or flight such as may be necessary in times of danger, fear, rage or pain. Adrenalin has been artificially made by chemists, and when injected into the blood stream of a living person produces remarkable results. The effects are that the pupils of the eye dilate, hairs stand on end, blood vessels tighten, digestion halts, and the liver liberates sugar.

The lesson we can draw from these facts is that in digesting, assimilating and rearranging the ingredients of our diet the body works with a precise and admirable harmony in which all the organs and cells interplay; that good nature, especially at meal time and just preceding it—or better than good nature a cheerful, courageous poise—helps digestion and assimilation and allows the chemical reactions of our digestive system to proceed pleasantly and efficiently.

On the contrary, starting the day or the meal with cross, fretful, angry feelings tends to check digestion in the ordinary individual, and to throw a greater stress on the inner harmony than is necessary for our customary vocations. Strong emotions of fear, anger, or perverseness at meal time will retard digestion and increase the tendency to sluggish elimination and the production of poisonous substances.

Chemical states and emotions are linked together. Let us maintain them at their best, for our pleasure, for the pleasure of our friends and for the greater joy of living all round.

Hell-Bent-for-Leather

Redlands Facts

"Folks nowadays are ridin' hell-bent-for-leather, but they don't get no place," said a grizzled Texan not long ago, as he stood watching the myriad life on an uptown street.

The Texan's criticism was hardly fair, because we are moving in many ways to better things. But in another sense he was right, for the increase of material wealth, in which we all share, has bred also a disquiet, a restless spirit, which is cheating us out of its enjoyment.

We Americans sometimes point the finger of scorn at certain types of Europeans who, we say, maintain a lower standard of living than we do. But they have found a thing that most Americans have lost—contentment.

Contentment!

No, it does not mean stagnation, loss of progress, a lack of desire for better things. It means an appreciation for what we have that is good. It means satisfaction with finished achievements that are worth while. It means freedom from futile fretting, envy and the pursuit of things that are not worth pursuing.

Contentment, like the hoop skirt, has gone out of style. The word has left our tongues to find a refuge in the dictionary. And its disappearance means that something has happened to our national life.

Present generations are living in an age of progress, of achievement, of wonders never dreamed of by our ancestors. We have more to live with, more to live for and greater resources of comfort than the richest kings of the past could hope for.

But does America's mood reflect that good fortune? No. Criticism of everything is the vogue. What our neighbor has more than we, ourselves, possess, is of prime importance. We are traveling fast, but we would go faster. We have much, but we would have still more.

But we have not contentment!

Criticism is useful and necessary, for through criticism comes progress. But criticism is fatal if it causes a people to turn their backs upon the good that they possess and robs them of their appreciation of those gifts already bestowed by advancement.

Criticism is destruction if it drives away contentment.

Worth While Verse

THE WINDOW BOX

Though you but own a window box for garden,
And can but buy a pennyworth of seed
The plot of which the fairies make you warden
May grow sweet dreams indeed.

A thought is sown, perchance not worth a penny,
Till in a neighbor's window-box it sinks,
When for the one he may return you many
Into your own heart's chinks.

Spring hastes alike to covert, copse and casement,
Bright thoughts are cheap, and happy dreams alive,
In third floor back, in garret, or in basement
How scent and beauty thrive!

Then cherish all your mignonettes and phloxes,
Adorn your sills with stately marguerites;
What are our parks but heaven's window boxes
With dreamland-painted seats?

Senator King on Reapportionment

In an announcement issued from his headquarters under the date of July 24, Senator Lyman M. King, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, takes issue with other candidates for the same office who have taken a position in favor of the plan of reapportionment of the state emanating from Los Angeles city.

"It is not good Americanism, not good for the future of the state, that the entire control of the state should get into the control of two great centers of population," said Senator King. "I do not know or care what effect a statement of this kind will have upon my candidacy in those centers. It is certainly not a square deal that all voice in the affairs of the state should be taken from the rural population. To give Los Angeles and the San Francisco bay region the power of an absolute dictator in legislative matters is just what will come if the Los Angeles plan for reapportionment shall prevail, for those two great cities now have a majority of the population of the state, and so-called 'constitutional reapportionment' is merely to apply a pleasant but deceptive name to an effort which is being made to ham-string the great producing areas of California."

"The prosperity of California depends upon her industries found largely outside of Los Angeles and San Francisco. Those are great cities and fine cities, and I am sure that their own peoples will not vote to disfranchise the country, if the matter is made plain to them. The voters of California, wherever they live, are eminently fair, but there are a few political leaders in Los Angeles who would like to get within their own hands the power to absolutely control legislation in this great state. That is what is being aimed at and what will come if the Los Angeles plan for reapportionment shall prevail.

"It is not a new idea, that one left outside the plan to redistrict house of the legislature shall be according to population. Many states have it. The United States has it, in giving two Senators to every state, irrespective of population. That is all the Farm Bureau and others asking for their new plan of legislative apportionment request. It is fair, it is just, that the great valleys of the Sacramento and the San Joaquin, with their fine cities like Sacramento, Stockton, Fresno, Modesto and Bakersfield, and the smaller communities intervening, not to mention San Diego, Santa Ana, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, San Jose and all their contributing towns and country, should be in control of one house of the legislature, if Los Angeles and San Francisco are to control the other.

"The Los Angeles plan of reapportionment is one of the most evil things ever offered the state of California in the guise of a 'constitutional plan.'"

Serious Toilers With Glimt of Humor

By Wm. P. Hamilton in Boston News Bureau

There is a story going the round of the London clubs, and among those who profess to be personal friends of the Prince of Wales, that he recently made a remark exhibiting the capacity for quiet but effective satire which may be said to have run like this:

"Look at my brother-in-law, Lascelles, he is getting nobler and nobler every day, while I am getting commoner and commoner!"

It is a pretty good story as it stands, but it is what his father, then Duke of York, was reported in the club smoking rooms of those days to have said about the Duke of Fife, who married King George's sister, afterward King Edward VII, but the Prince of Wales, said, with probably a little more emphasis about the Marquis of Lorne, who married the aunt of the present king of England, bearing the same relation to King Edward that Princess Mary, who married Lord Lascelles, bears to the Prince of Wales. The Marquis of Lorne, afterward Duke of Argyll, if it may be said at this distance of time without offense, was an earnest and conscientious person, but a deadly bore and something of a prig.

One point that is here to be made, because it has an unsuspected bearing upon American relations with Great Britain, is that the future ruler of Britain is neither a bore nor a prig. The resemblance may not be visible at first sight, but he is, in one respect at least, not unlike our own Mr. Coolidge. He takes his extremely exacting job very seriously, but he does not take himself too seriously. Friends of President Coolidge will remember that he has a well-disciplined sense of humor. He regards the presidency of the United States as something to be done thoroughly with a maximum of result and a minimum of noise.

But that does not prevent a somewhat humorous attitude carefully restrained, and unnoticed by many people who think it their duty to see the president often. It is even possible that he regards Mrs. Coolidge with secret amusement, although that lady is, to the average American eye, incomparably the better "mixer."

Observe the deeper implication of this comparison between two world-renowned persons, one of them young and English, and the other with a quarter of a century of public life behind him in the highly competitive conditions which prevail in the United States. Each is popular, trusted, liked and even understood. In my own modest travels in the states of the solid South and those of the West, where, according to our politicians, the farmer is almost on the verge of secession, the one man of whom everybody speaks well and feels that he can depend upon, is Coolidge. Southerners without number have told me that they wished their principles would allow them to vote for him if he is renominated. It is indeed possible that there may be some scrapping of those time-honored principles in 1928. They are becoming distinctly threadbare, and some descendants of Confederate ancestors whom I have met have forgotten what they were about.

Nobody over here would think of apologizing for the Prince of Wales, or even explaining him. He is a man for granted, like the marquis of Greenwich. He gives up most of his life to official duties, which become more exacting every day, travels all over the world from one public function to another, adding the delivery of addresses requiring not only the tactful selection of what to say but the much more important knowledge of what to leave out.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By Edson R. Walte, Secretary,
Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

E. J. STACKPOLE, EDITOR-IN-CHIEF OF THE HARRISBURG (Pennsylvania) TELEGRAPH, SAYS:

THAT all community building depends upon the active co-operation of the various civic and official bodies for the good of all. I have found in my newspaper and civic activities that unless the people of any community pull together for the common welfare there is bound to be a breakdown of the morale that must characterize successful community effort. During the World war all over the United States communities were striving toward a single goal—the winning of the war and the bringing together of all essential elements for the achievement of the main objective.

Here and there one finds communities torn asunder by factional or selfish elements and the whole community suffers as a consequence. It is manifestly important and necessary that all who are striving for the improvement and betterment of the community in which they live should recognize the value of co-ordinating all the activities in an intelligent program which may be followed to the exclusion of purely selfish and personal ends.

Harrisburg is an example of intelligent pulling together. Twenty-five years ago our city undertook a campaign of city improvement which comprised parks, sanitation, water supply, street paving, playgrounds, and all that contributes to the health and happiness of the people with such success that today the "Harrisburg Plan" is known far and wide as the practical solution of the community problems. It means nothing more or less than co-ordination of community effort to a common end. When the American cities determine to combine local interests for a definite purpose the general program of the country as a whole will be manifested in such a way as to attract the attention of the world. Harrisburg is happy in the harmony of action of its several official and civic bodies, the Chamber of Commerce always taking the lead, with the co-operation of other associations. One public loan after another for public improvements has been authorized by the voters and we are now financing two fine high schools as a recognition of the need of still more modern educational facilities.

AN EDUCATED CITY IS A PROSPEROUS AND SUCCESSFUL CITY.
